Migration counters (MC) are structures established to assist returned Albanian citizens to facilitate their reintegration in the country.

115. Across the country there have been set up 36 Migration Counters. In implementing the Strategy for the Reintegration of Returned Albanian Citizens 2010-2015 and its Plan of Action, these structures interview returned Albanian citizens who appear in the migration counters, provide information for public and private, in accordance with their needs (if there are any) and make reference to public and private services (if any) as well as specific projects of civil society in accordance with the needs of its returnee. The returned Albanian citizens, appear voluntarily at these counters.

116. From January 2011 to June 2015 a number of 4673 returned Albanian citizens showed up to Immigration Counters. 117. The greatest number of returnees is long term and family return. This group of citizens shows a greater need for support for reintegration. Considering a long term return together with their family, their need for reintegration has been greater, having so the need to show at the migration counters to get services. A small number of returned citizens result to have made a temporary and individual return. This because of their uncertainty to stay in Albania after their return, because going at the migration counters, shows that they need services for their integration.

118. Greece and Italy are the main countries the citizens are returned from. This because of the fact that the majority of Albanians have migrated in these two countries. The Albanian citizens returning from Greece constitute 80% of the all registered citizens in migration counters, whereas the Albanian citizens returned from Italy constitute a number of 14% of the persons registered in the migration counters. The returnee from other European Union countries and other non-member countries constitute a smaller number.

119. Most of the returned people are because of the unemployment in the host country. It is noticed that from 2012 to 2015 the number of people returned for other reasons, among which even for investments, although it is still small. A reason for this small number is the fact that this group does not show up at the migration counters, because they return with a well-organized plan and work to implement it. The citizens who go to the migration counters might be those who have not consolidated yet or lack the funds to invest and open their business or need more information in this regard.

120. In general, the reasons that made the Albanian citizens return during the years 2012, 2013 and 2014 have not had major changes. However in 2014 there was a downward trend of returns due to the lack of documentation and an increase in returns for other reasons (not unemployment).
