Replies of Côte d'Ivoire to the list of issues and questions*

[Date received: 19 June 2019]

* The present document is being issued without formal editing.

I. Constitutional and legislative framework

- 1. Article 123 of the Constitution of Côte d'Ivoire stipulates that ratified treaties and agreements have superior authority to that of domestic laws after their publication. Please indicate whether the Convention has been published in the State party in line with article 123 of the Constitution. Please provide examples of court cases or instances, if any, in which domestic courts have interpreted national law in line with the Convention. Please also explain the measures taken to amend national laws to bring them fully into line with the Convention

Response 1

1. The Convention was ratified on 18 December 1995 and published in accordance with article 123 of the Constitution.

2. The following measures were taken to amend national laws and bring them fully in line with the Convention: Act No. 2013-33 of 25 January 2013 repealing article 53 and amending articles 58, 59 and 60 of Act No. 64-375 of 7 October 1964 on marriage, as amended by Act No. 83-88 of 2 August 1983, was adopted; Act No. 2015-635 of 17 September 2015 amending the Act No. 95-696 of 7 September 1995 on education, whereby the Government of Côte d'Ivoire made schooling compulsory up to the age of 16, was adopted; a new Code of Criminal Procedure, Act No. 98-750 of 23 December 1998 on rural land, Act No. 98-757 of 23 December 1998 on female genital mutilation and Act No. 98-758 of 23 December on forced marriage were adopted; and the Personal and Family Code, the Criminal Code, the General Tax Code, provisions of the General Civil Service Regulations, the Military Service Code, the Labour Code, the Inter-Occupational Collective Agreement and the Property and Obligations Code were revised.

3. Act No. 2013-33 of 25 January 2013 repealing article 53 and amending articles 58, 59 and 60 of Act No. 64-375 of 7 October 1964 on marriage, as amended by Act No. 83-88 of 2 August 1983, was adopted; Act No. 2015-635 of 17 September 2015 amending Act No. 95-696 of 7 September 1995 on education, whereby the Government of Côte d'Ivoire made schooling compulsory up to the age of 16, was adopted; a new Code of Criminal Procedure, Act No. 98-750 of 23 December 1998 on rural land, Act No. 98-757 of 23 December 1998 on female genital mutilation and Act No. 98-758 of 23 December on forced marriage were adopted; and the Personal and Family Code, the Criminal Code, the General Tax Code, provisions relating to the General Civil Service Regulations, the Military Service Code, the Labour Code, the Inter-Occupational Collective Agreement and the Property and Obligations Code were revised.

2. It is indicated in the fourth report of the State party (CEDAW/C/CIV/4) that the definition of discrimination against women enshrined in article 1 of the Convention is covered by a general anti-discrimination clause in article 4 of the Constitution (para. 27).¹ Please provide information on steps taken to adopt a comprehensive anti-discrimination law containing an explicit prohibition of discrimination on the basis of sex and a definition of discrimination against women that encompasses direct and indirect discrimination in both the public and the private spheres, as well as intersecting forms of discrimination, in line with articles 1 and 2 (b) of the Convention and in accordance with target 5.1 and indicator 5.1.1 of the Sustainable Development Goals, to end all forms of discrimination against all women and girls everywhere

4. Côte d'Ivoire does not yet have a framework law on this issue, but many sectoral reforms address the problem. These include:

- (a) The opening of certain civil and military functions to women;
- (b) The extension of criminal prosecution to certain forms of violence;
- (c) In the area of education, the institution of compulsory schooling for children of both sexes aged 6 to 16;
- (d) In the area of land ownership, the Rural Land Act;
- (e) The Civil Marriage Act;
- (f) In the Labour Code and the Inter-Occupational Collective Agreement and the Property and Obligations Code;
- (g) With regard to tax matters, including income tax, employed women now benefit from the same income tax deductions as men.

3. The Committee notes that the Ministry for the Advancement of Women and the Family and the Protection of Children, in cooperation with national and international partners, has conducted a review of national legislation and identified provisions that are discriminatory on the basis of sex (para. 29). Please provide information on the steps taken to repeal or amend any discriminatory legislation, as previously recommended by the Committee (CEDAW/C/CIV/CO/1-3, para. 19 (a))

II. Access to justice

4. The State party reported that article 2 of Decree No. 2016-781 of 12 October 2016, which sets out the procedure with regard to legal aid for the application of Act No. 72-833 of 21 December 1972 on the Code of Civil, Commercial and Administrative Procedures, stipulates the decentralized provision of legal aid and that Decree No. 2014-259 of 14 May 2015 on the rates of court fees and charges in civil, commercial, administrative and corporate matters establishes the costs of court proceedings (paras. 53–54). The State party also reports that Circular No. 005 of 18 March 2014 of the Ministry of Justice, Human Rights and Public Liberties and the Interministerial Circular No. 016/MJ/MEMIS/MPRD of 4 August 2016 provide for the first level of reporting in cases of gender-based violence (para. 8). Please indicate whether steps have been taken to measure the impact of those legislative reforms on access for women to justice, in particular with regard to ensuring access to justice for women and girls who are victims of gender-based violence, who have little or no income and/or who are living in rural areas. Please describe measures that the State party has taken to raise awareness regarding those reforms. Please also provide information on the number and nature of complaints of discrimination on the basis of sex or gender brought by women to national courts and their outcomes

Response 4

Measures aimed at ensuring women's effective access to courts and tribunals, in particular women victims of violence during the post-election crisis

5. The Ministry of Women, Family and Children launched the “Project for the restoration of the rights of women victims of sexual violence during the post-election period”, which led to the compiling and transmittal of 67 case files to the Special Unit on Inquiry and Investigation; 54 of the female complainants received medical care and 41 attended an average of four sessions each of psychological counselling.
6. In addition, the Ministry established 32 gender desks in police and gendarmerie stations.
7. The Police Reception Charter, established by decree No. 1651/MEME/CAB of 5 June 2012, has improved access to police services and provides that victims of gender-based criminal offences should be given priority attention.
8. Furthermore:
- Circular No. 005 of 18 March 2014 of the Minister of Justice, Human Rights and Public Liberties;
 - Ministerial Circular No. 15/MJ/CAB of 13 July 2016 on the response to rape specifies the constituent elements of rape and reminds criminal investigation officers of the obligation to receive the victim's complaint with or without a medical certificate;
 - Interministerial Circular No. 016/MJ/MEMIS/MPRD of 4 August 2016 on the procedure for handling complaints of gender-based violence aims to facilitate the first stage of reporting cases of gender-based violence.

Measures that aim to facilitate women's access to justice, including by providing free legal aid to women without sufficient means

9. Article 6 of the 2016 Constitution of Côte d'Ivoire provides that "All persons have the right to free and equal access to justice".

10. In that regard, in order to promote equal access to justice services, the Government, with the assistance of its partners, has implemented a project to facilitate the exercise of rights and improve access to justice in several cities in Côte d'Ivoire.²

11. In addition, a provision on legal aid to help the poor was integrated into the Code of Civil, Commercial and Administrative Procedure. The Code was amended by decree with a view to increasing the accessibility of the judicial system by creating a local office at each court of first instance and a central office at the Ministry of Justice.³

Measures aimed at providing systematic training to judges, lawyers and non-governmental organizations (NGOs) on the application of legislation prohibiting discrimination, pursuant to obligations under the Convention and its Optional Protocol

12. Since 2012, actors in the justice system have participated in capacity-building workshops on addressing gender-based violence conducted by the Ministry of Women, Family and Children, United Nations system agencies, the United Nations Operation in Côte d'Ivoire (UNOCI) and civil society organizations. To date, 200 judges, prosecutors, lawyers and clerks have benefited from such capacity-building initiatives.

13. Other actors involved in the justice chain, including military and paramilitary forces, have been receiving training since 2011.

Measures aimed at facilitating access to NGOs that support justice for women

14. Article 8 of the new Code of Criminal Procedure allows NGOs working on women's rights to bring civil actions.

15. The table below shows the number of applications for legal aid and their processing over a three-year period.

Applications for legal aid from 2012 to 2014 (update data)

² The project to facilitate the exercise of rights and improve access to justice was officially launched in March 2013 by the United Nations Operation in Côte d'Ivoire, the European Union, the United Nations Children's Fund, the United Nations Development Programme and the Association des Femmes Juristes de Côte d'Ivoire [Association of Women Jurists of Côte d'Ivoire]. It aims to make justice a reality for citizens by empowering vulnerable individuals and groups in respect of human rights.

³ Decree No. 2016-781 of 12 October 2016 on the procedures for implementation of Act No. 72-833 of 21 December 1972 on the legal assistance provisions of the Code of Civil, Commercial and Administrative Procedure.

III. National machinery for the advancement of women

5. Please explain the steps taken to render fully operational the national policy on the equality of opportunities, equity and gender adopted in 2009 and to update the action plans on the implementation of the Convention for the period 2012–2017 and on the implementation of Security Council resolution 1325 (2000) for the period 2008–2012. Please indicate which institutions are in charge of gender equality at the regional, municipal and community levels and how coordination is ensured between those institutions and the Ministry for the Advancement of Women and the Family and the Protection of Children and between those institutions and the different gender directorates, units and focal points, as well as animatrices rurales (rural organizers) (paras. 62 and 79, and CEDAW/C/CIV/1-3, para. 126). Please also provide a time frame for the audit exercises planned by the Ministry for the Advancement of Women and the Family and the Protection of Children, the Ministry of National Education and the Ministry of Trade with the aim of assessing gender mainstreaming in the ministerial structure (para. 75). https://undocs.org/S/RES/1325\(2000\))

- The incubation centres for women entrepreneurs, including the Attécoubé centre inaugurated in November 2017;
- The elaboration of structural programmes regarding the development of shea, cashew and manioc food value chains;
- The pledge made by the Head of State in November 2017 regarding the HeForShe campaign.

17. Projects and programmes implemented under the National Employment Policy 2016–2020 include activities benefiting women. One such project, on the social integration of vulnerable groups, supports the development of income-generating activities, in partnership with UNACOOPEC-CI.

18. A growing number of groups are being established to increase women's participation in decision-making processes. These include the Réseau Ivoirien des Organisations Féminines [Ivorian Network of Women's Organizations] (RIOF), the Network on Peace and Security for Women in the ECOWAS Region and the Groupe des organisations féminines pour l'égalité hommes–femmes [Consortium of women's organizations for equality between men and women] (GOFEHF) in Côte d'Ivoire.

19. The Ministry of Women, Family and Children has a directorate dedicated to gender and equity, two central directorates, one responsible for women's empowerment and the other for entrepreneurship, as well as regional departments dedicated to these issues.

20. The gender audit has been completed and the report is available.

6. It is noted in the report that the Ministry for the Advancement of Women and the Family and the Protection of Children has begun the process of formalizing gender-responsive budgeting, and that the budgetary allocation to the Support Fund for the Women of Côte d'Ivoire was increased from 1 billion CFA francs in 2012 to 8 billion CFA francs in 2016 (paras. 63–64). Please provide updated information on the human, technical and financial resources allocated to the Ministry for the Advancement of Women and the Family and the Protection of Children, as well as other structures of the Government and whether those resources are adequate for the implementation of their respective mandates. Please also inform the Committee on progress made in strengthening the National Human Rights Commission, including the status of the draft law adopted by the Commission on General and Institutional Affairs of the National Assembly on 8 November 2018 that aims to replace the National Human Rights Commission with a national council on human rights and to ensure the full compliance of the council with the principles relating to the status of national institutions for the promotion and protection of human rights (the Paris Principles). Please describe any steps taken to establish an independent follow-up mechanism to implement Act No. 2014-388 of 20 June 2014 on the protection of human rights defenders, in particular the rights and protection needs of women human rights defenders set out in article 9 of the law

Response 6

21. While the Finance Act allocates resources to the Ministry for the Advancement of Women and the Family and the Protection of Children and other public entities, in practice, those resources are insufficient.

22. The National Human Rights Council was established by Act No. 2018-900 of 30 November 2018 on the establishment, powers, organization and functioning of the National Human Rights Council, which is based on the Constitution and the Paris Principles. The National Human Rights Council is now an independent administrative authority endowed with a legal personality and financial autonomy.

23. Decree No. 2017-121 of 22 February 2017 on the implementation of Act No. 2014-388 of 20 June 2014 on the protection of human rights defenders and the protection needs of women human rights defenders was adopted.

24. Article 18 of that decree delegates the protection of human rights defenders to the State with the assistance of the National Human Rights Council of Cote d'Ivoire.

IV. Temporary special measures

7. Please explain why no steps, other than the draft law establishing a quota for the representation of women among electoral candidates (para. 90), have been taken to adopt temporary special measures, in line with article 4 (1) of the Convention and the Committee's general recommendation No. 25 (2004) on temporary special measures and as recommended in the Committee's previous concluding observations (CEDAW/C/CIV/CO/1-3, para. 25 (a)–(c)), to accelerate the achievement of the substantive equality of women and men in areas under the Convention where women are underrepresented or disadvantaged

Response 7

25. The Government reiterated its commitment to promote women's rights and ensure their representation in elected bodies by adopting a draft law on this issue in March 2019. However, the adoption of such a legal instrument by Parliament requires the support of political parties and groups. Discussions are ongoing to achieve this objective.

V. Discriminatory gender stereotypes and harmful practices

8. The report refers to several strategies, plans and activities aimed at modifying or eliminating discriminatory gender stereotypes and harmful practices, such as child marriage, adolescent pregnancy and female genital mutilation (paras. 92–93). In the light of the Committee's previous recommendation (CEDAW/C/CIV/CO/1-3, para. 27 (c)), please describe the impact of those strategies, plans and activities and provide information on the progress made in establishing a systematic monitoring and evaluation framework on the basis of the ongoing assessment efforts (paras. 95–96). Please specify whether the State party is conducting any campaigns, including in cooperation with civil society, to raise awareness of the above-mentioned strategies, plans and activities and enhance the positive and non-stereotypical portrayal of women and girls. Please also provide information on the number of investigations, prosecutions, convictions and acquittals, and on the sentences imposed, under Act No. 98-757 of 23 December 1998 penalizing female genital mutilation (para. 93) and whether medical, psychosocial and rehabilitation support is provided to women and girls who are victims of female genital mutilation

Response 8

26. The various planning instruments relating to early marriage and pregnancy and female genital mutilation are subject to periodic reporting and review.

27. Several outreach and awareness-raising campaigns are conducted on an ongoing basis in collaboration with civil society organizations. These include:

The HeForShe campaign; and

The 16 Days of Activism against Gender-Based Violence campaign, which is carried out annually in November.

28. With regard to convictions, the following should be noted:

- The conviction on 16 July 2017 of five practitioners of female circumcision in Danané;
- The conviction in Man of five practitioners of female circumcision, three on 27 July 2017 and two on 1 February 2018;
- In a statement, the Ivorian Government, which was alert to the issue, denounced the acts of genital mutilation committed against 14 young girls in Adiaké on 31 August 2018;
- With respect to the psychosocial support and rehabilitation assistance provided to women and girls who are victims of female genital mutilation, the Ministry of Women, Family and Children has established and coordinates several structures to provide survivors the support they need. These include a national committee to combat gender-based violence, 61 hubs to address gender-based violence, social centres, monitoring committees, the Support Centre for Victims of Sexual Violence and the Legal and Judicial Assistance Unit of the Office of the Minister for Women, Family and Children.

VI. Gender-based violence against women

9. In the light of the Committee's general recommendation No. 35 (2017) on gender-based violence against women, updating general recommendation No. 19, and target 5.2 of the Sustainable Development Goals, to eliminate all forms of violence against all women and girls in the public and private spheres, please provide updated information on progress made in revising article 354 of the Criminal Code to define rape and to explicitly criminalize marital rape, and to accelerate the revision process of the Criminal Code. Please indicate any steps taken to revise legislation, including the Minority Act (1970), to explicitly prohibit the corporal punishment of children in all settings, in particular at home. Please also provide information on plans to adopt a comprehensive law on gender-based violence against women, as recommended in the national strategy to combat gender-based violence adopted in 2014, including the criminalization of domestic violence, marital rape and sexual harassment

Response 9

29. All of these questions are addressed in the various amendments advanced by the Government of Côte d'Ivoire (the Criminal Code and the Code of Criminal Procedure have already been adopted).

- 10. In its report, the State party refers to a small number of cases reported and tried with respect to gender-based violence against women, including only 1 case each, between January 2014 and October 2015, of rape, forced marriage and the abduction of minors and 19 cases of public indecency (para. 118 and table 3). Please provide updated information on the number of cases, explain their low numbers and provide a timeline for removing any financial charges for medical certificates required by women and girls who are victims of gender-based violence to obtain legal redress (para. 103). Please explain any steps taken to review the funding arrangements for the national strategy to combat gender-based violence and its operational action plan to ensure its full implementation. Please provide information on the types and availability of support services for women who are victims of gender-based violence (para. 98). Please indicate what steps have been taken to conduct awareness-raising campaigns, in particular for girls, parents and caregivers, in order to prevent persistent violence against women and girls and the stigmatization of victims of sexual violence and abuse

30. According to data from the National Committee to Combat Gender-Based Violence, in 2014, 582 cases of gender-based violence were identified, 90 per cent of which were incidents of sexual violence. In 2015, 867 cases of gender-based violence were documented, of which 26.41 per cent involved sexual violence.

31. Regarding the issue of medical certificates, although they still charge fees, all entities involved in combating gender-based violence have doctors appointed by the Ministry of Health to serve as gender-based violence focal points who issue medical certificates free of charge in cases of rape and female genital mutilation. For example, Dr. Raphael Nguessan, the gender-based violence focal point and trainer in skills to address gender-based violence at the Tonkpi Regional Directorate and a member of the Man hub, always issues a medical certificate free of charge in all cases of rape and female genital mutilation. In order to ensure that medical certificates are completely free of charge, the Ministry of Women, Family and Children intends to advance, with the help of technical and financial partners, a draft law in 2019 aimed at providing comprehensive care for survivors of gender-based violence.

32. The National Strategy to Combat Gender-Based Violence receives financial support from the Government through the budget line of the Ministry of Women, Family and Children. In order to strengthen this support, the Ministry intends to formalize the hubs to address gender-based violence and thus obtain a budget allocation from the State for their operation. To this end, draft decrees establishing hubs to address gender-based violence have been drafted by the Regulatory Directorate of the Ministry of Women, Family and Children.

33. Awareness-raising campaigns targeting girls, parents and caregivers with the aim of preventing persistent acts of violence against women and girls and the stigmatization of victims of violence and sexual abuse include the annual 16 Days of Activism against Gender-Based Violence campaign and the awareness-raising activities carried out by the National Committee to Address Gender-Based Violence in Communities. In addition, with the support of technical and financial partners, the Ministry of Women, Family and Children plays a major role in the implementation of the Sahel Women's Empowerment and Demographic Dividend project and conducts a number of awareness-raising campaigns.

VII. Violence against women in conflict and peacebuilding situations

11. The Committee notes the establishment of a national commission to combat sexual violence by presidential decree in June 2016, mandated to coordinate the programmatic work of the Government on gender-based violence during the post-election crisis. Please specify the human and financial resources allocated by the State party to the commission for the implementation of its action plan and explain the activities that were undertaken as components of the action plan. Please provide information on the progress of investigating and trying cases of sexual violence related to the post-election crisis. Please also explain the safeguards put in place by the State party to ensure that perpetrators of acts of sexual violence do not benefit from the amnesty provided for under article 1 of Ordinance No. 2018-669 of 6 August 2018

34. Since 2017, Côte d'Ivoire has been the only State to be removed from the list of countries whose defence and security forces are accused of systematically engaging in sexual exploitation and other forms of sexual violence. To date, 59 officers (police and gendarmes) and at least 150 military personnel from Côte d'Ivoire are part of United Nations peacekeeping operations.

35. Judicial action to address sexual and gender-based violence was strengthened through an instruction from the Director of Civil and Criminal Affairs establishing units to monitor all related procedures.

36. In addition, several actions have been carried out or are in progress, including:

- The adoption on 5 September 2014 of the National Strategy to Combat Gender-Based Violence;
- The establishment in 2015 of a joint mechanism for the Ivorian armed forces and the UNOCI human rights division to monitor human rights violations;
- The creation of a national committee to address conflict-related sexual violence and the establishment of a mechanism to address rape;
- The implementation of the action plan against sexual violence of the Ivorian armed forces;
- The pledge made by 35 commanders of armed forces and gendarmerie units in 2015 and 47 in 2016 to train their staff on the issue of sexual violence;
- The establishment of specialized police units to strengthen efforts on the issue;
- As a result, compared to 2011, when 478 cases of sexual violence were recorded in the wake of the post-election crisis and charges were brought against Ivorian armed forces and non-State actors, in 2016 there was one case of attempted rape. The perpetrator was brought before the military tribunal.

VIII. Trafficking and exploitation of prostitution

12. Please specify the timeline, following the adoption of Act No. 2016-1111 of 8 December 2016 on combating trafficking in persons, for the full implementation of the national strategy to combat trafficking in persons and its five-year action plan and for the drafting of a national action plan on sexual exploitation (paras. 158–159). Please also explain the measures taken with regard to legislation, institutions and policies to protect women in prostitution from violence, as the measures cited in the report of the State party focus only on the protection of children (paras. 158–161, 168 and 170). Please provide information on the impact of regional and international cooperation agreements on trafficking signed by the State party in recent years and on the planned follow-up to the studies on the root causes of prostitution, especially of girls in prostitution, undertaken in 2012 and 2015 (paras. 155–156, 163 and 165)

Response 12

37. See the timetables provided in the action plan annexed to the strategy.

38. The 2016 Act contains provisions for the protection of victims, including prostitutes and witnesses of sexual exploitation. However, the operational mechanisms are not yet in effect.

39. Regional and international cooperation agreements are periodically evaluated at the meetings of the monitoring committees. The effective implementation of these agreements promotes adequate care for victims from the time they are identified until their return to their country of origin. Cooperation between the various police services of the States parties to these agreements facilitates the prevention and response to trafficking (e.g. Operation Bia I and Operation Bia II carried out jointly by Côte d'Ivoire and Ghana in 2009 and 2011 and Operation Nawa in 2014).

IX. Participation in political and public life

13. Please provide information on measures taken to expedite the adoption of the draft law on a quota of 30 per cent for women in Parliament and explain other steps planned by the State party to increase the representation of women in decision-making positions, in line with article 36 of the State party's Constitution and the Committee's general recommendation No. 23 (1997) on women in political and public life. Please specify the steps taken to ensure the participation of women in local decision-making characterized by patriarchal and matriarchal structures (CEDAW/C/CIV/1-3, paras. 608–610)

Response 13

40. Article 36 of the new October 2016 Constitution stipulates that the State shall take action to promote the political rights of women by providing them with greater opportunities for representation in electoral assemblies. The procedures to implement article 36 must be prescribed by law. In this regard, in March 2018 the Government Council adopted a draft law on the participation of women in elected assemblies. The enactment process is under way.

41. In addition, at the opening ceremony of the HeForShe campaign, the Head of State pledged to consolidate the principle of parity by 2020.

42. Furthermore, awareness-raising campaigns on women's participation in local decision-making bodies are carried out by external entities (the regional directorates of the Ministry of Women) and the Directorate for the Promotion of the Family.

X. Nationality

- 14. The Committee notes the adoption of Act No. 2013-654 of 13 September 2013 that amends articles 12, 13, 14 and 16 of Act No. 61-415 of 14 December 1961 on the Nationality Code (as modified by Act No. 72-852 of 21 December 1972 and No. 2004-662 of 17 December 2004 and Decisions No. 2005-03/PR of 15 July 2005 and No. 2005-09/PR of 29 August 2005) and increases the degree of gender parity in the Nationality Code. Please provide information on any measures taken to amend or repeal the remaining provisions of the Nationality Code that are discriminatory on the basis of sex, including articles 28 (3) and 45 (1), and to harmonize article 99 with the amendments made to articles 12, 13, 14 and 16. Please also explain any steps taken to extend the positive amendments to article 12 of the Nationality Code to traditional and non-civil marriages and ease the formal requirements of article 11 of Act No. 64-378 (1964) on the acquisition of nationality by adoption (modified by Law No. 83-802 (1983)) to cover non-formal adoptions. Please also provide information on the measures taken to ensure that birth registration is accessible and available in all parts of the territory of the State party, in line with article 1 of Act No. 64-373 of 7 October 1964, as amended by Act No. 83-799 of 2 August 1983, that establishes the right of every person to a name, and article 82 of Law No. 99-691 of 14 December 1999, that stipulates the application process for children whose birth has not been declared within the regulated time frame

Response 14

43. Consideration is being given to harmonizing the provisions of the Nationality Code with the Convention through the National Action Plan to Address Statelessness, which devotes a section to this issue.
44. In order to enter into force, the 1964 Marriage Act had to provide a transitional period for the legalization of non-formal unions. As a result, since then, only marriages conducted by the civil registrar have been recognized in Côte d'Ivoire. The same applies to adoption.
45. The new civil status act adopted in December 2018 created new mechanisms for birth registration.
46. In addition, the draft law to modernize the civil registry, adopted on 29 October 2018, aims to strengthen the system for collecting and keeping civil status records (birth, marriage, death, etc.).

XI. Education

15. With reference to the Committee's general recommendation No. 36 (2017) on the right of girls and women to education, please describe the impact of the measures taken by the State party under article 2 (1) of Act No. 2015-635 of 17 September 2015 on compulsory schooling, amending Act No. 95-696 of 7 September 1995 on education, and its strategic plan to accelerate access to education for girls for the period 2016–2018 on access for women and girls to universal and high-quality education, in particular with regard to the attendance of girls in secondary school and literacy rates among women and girls, including in rural areas (paras. 187–190 and 202–203). In the light of the Committee's previous recommendations (CEDAW/C/CIV/CO/1-3, para. 37 (b)), please provide information on measures taken to prevent, investigate and adequately punish the sexual abuse and harassment of female students by teachers. Please describe any measures taken to eliminate discriminatory gender stereotypes and other barriers to access for girls to education by raising awareness, in particular among parents, of the importance of education for women, including for adolescent mothers

Response 15

47. The Strategic Plan to Accelerate the Education of Girls 2016–2018, which is subtitled “The challenge of compulsory education: making girls the central focus”, aims to strengthen all actions carried out since 2007 to keep girls in school. Six secondary schools for girls have been built (in Man, Bondoukou, Abobo, Odienné, San Pedro and Dimbokro) to complement the already functioning schools (two in Bouaké, one in Yopougon, one in Bingerville, one in Man and one in Yamoussoukro). It should be noted that the secondary schools being established will all have boarding facilities.

48. Since the launch of the United Nations Girls' Education Initiative (UNGEI 2005), the Ministry of National Education and Technical Learning has carried out awareness-raising activities to promote girls' access to education and their retention in school, including organizing school monitoring committees, mainstreaming gender in the curricula for the 2009–2012 period and promoting the concept of child-friendly and girl-friendly schools.

49. The project launched in 2009 to mobilize authorities at the local level and women to support girls' education is still under way. Twenty communities have developed plans to promote girls' education. Clubs for mothers of girl students have been established in more than 15 regional directorates.

Please also indicate the number of inspections carried out under those provisions or other laws in relation to discrimination against women, the nature of the violations recorded and the penalties imposed. Please also provide information on legislative and other measures, including temporary special measures, taken or planned to address occupational segregation, both horizontal and vertical, between women and men

58. Since 2014, the Government has carried out awareness-raising activities and provided health services in about 100 departments every year. These services are offered to adolescents and young people aged 10 to 24 and include sex education, condom distribution and HIV testing. Please provide updated information on the progress in the implementation of the strategy to provide post-abortion care (para. 234). Please indicate whether, in addition to the awareness-raising campaigns conducted by the Ministry of Education (para. 236), mandatory, age-appropriate education on sexual and reproductive health, including on responsible sexual behaviour, family planning and modern forms of contraception, is offered as part of the regular school curriculum and taught by qualified teachers according to the same standards in all parts of the State party

62. Ivorian positive law in this area has remained unchanged. Basic training curricula include age-appropriate courses on sexual and reproductive health.
