I. States parties to the Convention and its Optional Protocol

1. As at 11 April 2014, the closing date of the eleventh session, there were 144 States parties to the Convention on the Rights of Persons with Disabilities and 80 States parties to its Optional Protocol. The lists of States parties to these instruments are available on the website of the United Nations Office of Legal Affairs.

II. Opening of the eleventh session of the Committee

2. The eleventh session opened in a public meeting with welcoming remarks by the Chairperson of the Committee. The opening statement of the Office of the United Nations High Commissioner for Human Rights (OHCHR) was delivered by the Deputy High Commissioner, and is available on the Committee's website.

3. The Committee reviewed and adopted the provisional agenda and tentative programme of work for the eleventh session (CRPD/C/11/1).

III. Membership of the Committee

4. The list of members of the Committee as at 11 April 2014, indicating the duration of their terms of office, is available on the Committee's website.

IV. Working methods

5. The Committee discussed various issues related to its working methods and adopted several decisions, which are listed in annex I to the present report.

V. Adoption of general comments

6. The first reading of the draft general comment on the right to equal recognition before the law (art. 12) took place on 8 April 2014 during the 136th and 137th meetings of the Committee. General comment No. 1 on the right to legal capacity (CRPD/C/GC/2) was adopted by consensus.

7. The first reading of the draft general comment on accessibility (art. 9) took place on 9 April 2014 during the 138th and 139th meetings of the Committee. General comment No. 2 on accessibility (CRPD/C/GC/2) was adopted by consensus.

8. The working group on women and girls with disabilities (art. 6), introduced a general outline of the draft general comment, which was endorsed by the Committee.

VI. Activities related to the Optional Protocol

9. The Committee adopted its Views on communication No. 2/2010, Gröninger v. Germany (CRPD/C/11/D/2/2010), submitted by Ms. Gröninger on behalf of her son, who was born with "spasticity". The author raised the application of the existing scheme for the provision of an "integration subsidy" which employment agencies had discretion to grant to an employer who hired a person with disabilities. The Committee noted that the intention behind the integration subsidies scheme was to encourage employers to hire persons with disabilities but that, in practice, the scheme required employers to go through an additional application process, the duration and outcome of which were uncertain. The Committee observed that the disabled person had no opportunity to take part in the process and that, in the case of the author's son, the scheme appeared to have served as a deterrent, rather than as an encouragement, for employers. The Committee concluded that the existing model for the provision of integration subsidies did not effectively promote the employment of persons with disabilities and might result in indirect discrimination, in violation of the State party's obligations under article 27, paragraph 1 (h), on work and employment, read together with article 3, paragraphs (a), (b), (c) and (e), on general principles, article 4, paragraph 1 (a), on the obligation to adopt all appropriate legislative, administrative and other measures for the implementation of the rights recognized in the Covenant, and article 5, paragraph 1, on equality and non-discrimination. The Committee recommended that the State party: (i) reassess the author's son's case and apply all measures available to effectively promote employment opportunities for persons with disabilities; (ii) provide adequate compensation to the author's son, including for the costs incurred in filing the communication; (iii) take steps to prevent similar violations in the future, including by reviewing the content and functioning of the scheme for the provision of integration subsidies for persons with a disability.

10. The Committee adopted its Views on communication No. 8/2012, X v. Argentina (CRPD/C/11/D/8/2012), which relates to the right to access to adequate detention conditions and adequate and timely medical care and rehabilitation for a person with a disability who is in detention. The Committee considered that the State party had failed to show that the measures it had taken to remove the barriers that impeded access to the author's physical environment in the prison were sufficient to ensure his access to a bathroom and shower with adapted features and a recreational courtyard and nursing service as autonomously as possible, in breach of articles 9 (accessibility) and 14 (liberty and security of the person). The Committee also considered that, in view of the lack of accessibility and of adequate reasonable accommodation, the author had been placed in precarious detention conditions, in breach of article 17, on physical and mental integrity. The Committee nevertheless considered that it did not have sufficient evidence to conclude that the author's rights to health care and rehabilitation had been violated; that travel to and from the rehabilitation centre posed a risk to his life (arts. 10, 25 and 26), nor that there had been a violation of article 15 of the Convention, on freedom from torture or cruel, inhuman or degrading treatment or punishment. The Committee recommended that the State party (i) prevent similar violations, including through sufficient and reasonable adjustments to ensure that persons with disabilities could access prison facilities and health care, and (ii) ensure that a lack of accessibility did not cause physical or psychological suffering that might amount to cruel, inhuman or degrading treatment.

11. The Committee adopted the Note by the Secretary General on submissions received between the 10th and 11th sessions, a period during which the Committee had received 27 communications, bringing to a total of 336 the submissions received since its creation. The Committee had registered 19 communications, of which 6 had been examined.

12. The Committee adopted its interim follow-up report with regard to the views adopted in H.M. v. Sweden (CRPD/C/7/D/3/2011), and Nyusti and Takács v. Hungary (CRPD/C/9/D/1/2010), and considered that additional measures remained necessary to implement the views. The follow-up dialogue was ongoing.

VII. Other decisions

13. The Committee adopted the reports of its tenth and eleventh sessions (CRPD/C/10/2 and CRPD/C/11/2).

VIII. Future sessions

14. The twelfth session of the Committee is scheduled to take place from 15 September to 3 October 2014 and will be followed by the second meeting of the pre-sessional working group, from 7 to 11 October 2014.

IX. Accessibility of the Committee's meetings

15. Captioning was provided at all public and private meetings, while International Sign Language interpretation was provided during all public meetings, in addition to Spanish/Costa Rican sign language during the dialogue with Costa Rica.

X. Cooperation with relevant bodies

A. Cooperation with United Nations organs and specialized agencies

16. The Committee met with experts of the Subcommittee on the Prevention of Torture who shared experiences and practices in interacting with national prevention mechanisms. The Committee valued that exchange, which would allow the Committee to further develop its interaction with independent national monitoring mechanisms.

17. The Committee met with the Interagency Support Group for the Convention (IASG), to discuss ways of further promoting the interaction between IASG and the Committee and the mainstreaming of the human rights approach to disability on the post-2015 development agenda.

B. Cooperation with non-governmental organizations and other bodies

18. The Committee was addressed by representatives of the International Disability Alliance, World Network of Users and Survivors of Psychiatry, Disability Council International, World Federation of the Deaf, Mind Rights and European Network of Users and Survivors of Psychiatry, the Association of Relatives of Psychically Disabled Persons of Sweden (ILG), and Human Rights Watch.

19. The Committee met with a representative of the International Coordinating Committee of National Institutions for the Promotion and Protection of Human Rights (ICC) to discuss the engagement of national human rights institutions in the work of the Committee.

XI. Consideration of reports submitted in accordance with article 35 of the Convention

20. The Committee considered the initial reports of Sweden (CRPD/C/SWE/1), Azerbaijan (CRPD/C/AZE/1), and Costa Rica (CRPD/C/CRI/1). The Committee adopted concluding observations on the reports at its 141st meeting (see the Committee's website at <http://www.ohchr.org/EN/HRBodies/CRPD/Pages/CRPDIndex.aspx>).

21. The Committee adopted a list of issues on the initial report of Mexico (CRPD/C/MEX/1).

XII. Conference of States parties to the Convention

22. The Committee decided that it would be represented by the Chairperson and the rapporteur of the Committee at the seventh session of the Conference of States Parties to the Convention.

Annex III

Outline document for the preparation of a general comment on article 6 of the Convention on the Rights of Persons with Disabilities

The full text is available on the Committee's website.

1. Introduction to the general comment

(1) General introduction to the right to equality in other human rights treaties and “soft law” (Standard Rules on the Equalization of Opportunities for Persons with Disabilities and the Committee's general comments No. 5 (1981) on derogations and No. 20 (1992) on the prohibition of torture or cruel, inhuman or degrading treatment or punishment); conceptual development of the right to equality in international human rights law from formal equality to substantive equality; the role of reasonable accommodation in this process; the emergence of the concept of intersectional discrimination.

(2) Brief overview of disabled women and girls as a subject of United Nations law and policy: from the Third World Conference on Women, held in Nairobi in 1985, to the World Conference on Women in Beijing (1995) and beyond; women and girls with disabilities in various United Nations organizations resource materials and tools – including guidelines, reference tools and other materials and general comments by other treaty bodies.

(3) Most common gaps in implementation of article 6 of the Convention, as identified by the Committee in its dialogues with States parties under the reporting procedure.

(2) A detailed interpretation of article 6, paragraph 1, using the definition “multiple discrimination” as opposed to “one-dimensional discrimination” as a starting point and highlighting “intersectional discrimination”, with the aim of identifying the main intersectional areas involved in discrimination faced by women and girls with disabilities and ways to detect these forms of exponential discrimination and how they link to statistical data and concrete research projects.

(3) Detailed interpretation of article 6, paragraph 2, defining the concepts of “development”, “advancement” and “empowerment”, interpreting the concept of “appropriate measures” in relation to “temporary special measures” and “positive action measures”.

3. States parties’ obligations

(1) Duty to respect, protect and fulfil the rights under article 6 and to differentiate between non-discrimination duties and empowerment duties.

(2) Legislation that protects the enjoyment of human rights and fundamental freedoms by women and girls with disabilities.

(3) Duties of States parties with regard to article 4, paragraph 1 (a), to adopt or amend anti-discrimination laws in relation to multidimensional discrimination; amend national action plans for women, etc.

(4) Duties of States parties with regard to article 4, paragraph 1 (b), to review laws with respect to the right to marry, sterilization, rape and other forms of sexual violence, to review family policy if it discriminates against women with disabilities, etc.

(6) To take measures in the field of international co-operation to secure the full realization of social, economic and cultural rights by women and girls with disabilities.
