Specific information on the implementation of articles 1–16 of the Convention, including with regard to the Committee's previous recommendations

Follow-up questions from the previous reporting cycle

1. In its previous concluding observations (see CAT/C/JOR/CO/3, para. 51),¹ the Committee requested the State party to provide further information regarding areas of particular concern identified by the Committee concerning fundamental legal safeguards, administrative detention, special courts and coerced confessions (paras. 18, 22, 38 and 50). The Committee regrets that the State party has not yet submitted a follow-up report, which was due on 9 December 2016.

Articles 1 and 4

2. With reference to the Committee's previous concluding observations (para. 10), please provide updated information on steps taken to bring the definition of torture set out in article 208 of the Penal Code into line with article 1 of the Convention, and to ensure that acts of torture are considered a criminal offence, not a misdemeanour. Please indicate whether the Penal Code has been amended to include a provision explicitly stating that acts of torture are not subject to either amnesty or statutes of limitations.² Please indicate whether the State party intends to increase the maximum three-year punishment for acts of torture, to be fully in line with article 4 of the Convention. Please report on measures adopted to extend punishment for torture to anyone who attempts to commit torture, or who instigates, consents to or acquiesces to the commission of such acts.

Article 2³

3. In the light of the Committee's previous concluding observations (para. 12), please provide information on measures taken to ensure that the prohibition of torture is absolute

* Adopted by the Committee at its sixty-third session (23 April–18 May 2018).

² See CCPR/C/JOR/CO/5, para. 17.

³ The issues raised under article 2 could also touch on issues raised under other articles of the Convention, including article 16. As stated in paragraph 3 of the Committee's general comment No. 2 (2007) on the implementation of article 2 by States parties, the obligation to prevent torture in article 2 is wide-ranging. The obligations to prevent torture and other cruel, inhuman or degrading treatment or punishment under article 16 (1) are indivisible, interdependent and interrelated. The obligation to prevent such ill-treatment in practice overlaps with and is largely congruent with the obligation to prevent torture. In practice, the definitional threshold between ill-treatment and torture is often not clear. See also chapter V of the same general comment.

and non-derogable, including in the context of antiterrorism measures, and that any exceptional circumstances or an order from a superior officer may not be invoked as a justification of torture. Please explain what safeguards are in place to protect an officer who refuses to carry out an illegal order given by a superior officer.

4. With reference to the previous concluding observations (para. 18), please report on measures to guarantee that all detained persons, including those held in facilities of the General Intelligence Directorate and the Public Security Directorate, are afforded, in law and in practice, all fundamental legal safeguards from the outset of their deprivation of liberty, including the right to:

- (a) Be informed orally and in writing of the charges against them and of their rights in a language they understand;
- (b) Promptly access a lawyer or free legal aid;
- (c) Immediately request and receive a medical examination by an independent doctor;
- (d) Inform a family member or any other persons of their own choice about their deprivation of liberty immediately after apprehension;
- (e) Be brought before a judge within 24 hours.

5. Please provide detailed information on the implementation of the recently passed criminal justice reform, including with regard to the provision of free legal assistance, as proposed by the Royal Committee for Developing the Judiciary and Enhancing the Rule of Law. Please indicate whether the reform revises articles 63 (2) and 64 (3) of the Code of Criminal Procedure with a view to guaranteeing the right to legal counsel even “in case of urgency” and whether it repeals article 66 (1) of the same Code that provides for the prohibition of communication between a detainee and a lawyer (para. 17).

6. Please comment on reports that authorities have used the practice of transferring suspects to the State Security Court or to a different police station in order to extend the 24-hour limit for investigation prior to notification. Please report on measures in place to guarantee full confidentiality for lawyer-client consultations in lawyers’ rooms at detention facilities. Please describe training and awareness-raising programmes provided to law enforcement officers on fundamental safeguards against torture and ill-treatment.

7. With reference to the previous concluding observations (para. 20), please indicate whether pretrial detainees are separated from convicted prisoners at all facilities. Please report on measures taken to reduce the number of pretrial detainees, including by using non-custodial measures, in accordance with the United Nations Standard Minimum Rules for Non-custodial Measures (the Tokyo Rules). Please indicate steps taken to reduce the judicial backlog, which reportedly adds to the problem of pretrial detention.

8. In the light of the previous concluding observations (para. 22), please provide information on steps taken to amend or repeal the Crimes Prevention Act (1954) with a view to abolishing the practice of administrative detention.⁴ Please indicate any efforts made to provide for routine judicial review of administrative detentions and to include an explicit provision that entitles victims of arbitrary or unlawful detention to redress. 11. In the light of the previous concluding observations (para. 38), please report on steps taken to transfer the jurisdiction over the personnel of the Public Security Directorate to the regular courts so that alleged perpetrators of torture and ill-treatment can be prosecuted through the regular civil courts. Please indicate efforts made to replace the special court system, such as the Special Police Court and the Military Tribunal of the General Intelligence Directorate, by a regular court system that fully guarantees independence and impartiality, in accordance with the Convention and other international fair trial standards.⁹

12. Further to the previous concluding observations (para. 40), please provide information on the measures taken to combat all forms of violence against women, particularly with regard to cases that involve the actions or omissions of State authorities or others, that engage the State party's international responsibility in accordance with the Convention.
