1. Constitutional framework – the Constitution of the Republic of Albania²

18. Article 15 of the Constitution of the RoA ensures the protection of human rights and fundamental freedoms. 19. The content of such provision in the Constitution complies with Article 1 of the European Convention on Human Rights (signed by the RoA on 13.07.1995, ratified on 31.07.1996 and entered into force on 2.10.1996).

20. Article 16 of the Constitution prescribes explicitly that “human rights and fundamental freedoms, and obligations of Albanian nationals are also valid for foreign nationals and aliens staying in the territory of the RoA”. Exceptions are only allowed for cases where the exercise of rights and freedoms is specifically connected with Albanian citizenship.

21. Limitations to a person rights and freedoms are made for the protection of public interests. Section 2 of Article 17 defines that such limitations “shall not restrict the essentials of human rights and freedoms” and above all “shall not exceed limitations stipulated under the European Convention on Human Rights” (Article 18 of the European Convention on Human Rights).

22. Article 122 of the Constitution defines the proportions between domestic rights and international ones with respect to their practical enforcement. In pursue of such provisions, international agreements ratified by the Parliament are components of domestic legislation which are enforced directly. Exceptions are made for cases where the Convention is not self-applicable and its enforcement requires the issue of legal acts and other by-laws. In this respect, the approval lastly of the law 9959, dated 17.07.2008, “For foreigners” and the law 9570, dated 03.07.2006, “For encouraging employment”, is a result of obligations derived from the Convention.

23. Section 3 of Article 122 of the Constitution defines, in case of conflicts, the prevalence of international laws over the domestic rights.

24. A separate Chapter of the Constitution prescribes “The personal rights and freedoms”, which include: the right to a person life (Article 21); the right to freedom of expression, press, radio and television (Article 22); the right to information (Article 23); freedom of conscience and religion (Article 24); prohibition of torture, cruel and inhuman punishment and degrading treatment (Article 25); abolition of compulsory labor (Article 26); personal liberty (Article 27); the right to lawful and fair penal judicial proceedings (Articles 28, 29, 30, 31, 32, 33, 34 and 35); the right to freedom of correspondence (Article

29. For the purpose of preventing negative occurrences in the process of people free movement, the Parliament has adopted a complete legal framework, which allows the correct management of the migratory process.

32. Article 1 of the CCRA specifies as subjects to civil law any physical person, who, within a certain legal framework, enjoys equal and full capacity to carry on his rights and obligations. 36. The Code of the Civil Procedures of the Republic of Albania (hereinafter referred to as the CCPRA) defines the obligatory rules for the judgment of civil, public and private disputes stipulated under this Code and by separate laws.

37. The Court is the competent body for the enforcement of the rules laid down in this Code. The Court has the obligation to care and take required steps for carrying out a fair trial. Upon its completion, the Court, after hearing all claims of the “Parties” involved, evaluates the proofs and evidences brought before the trial and makes and declares its decision for the object of the civil case (Articles 4, 6, 9, 10).

38. Based on Article 16 of the Constitution and on Articles 1 and 3 of the CCA, the definition of the term “Party” in Article 2 of the CCPRA refers to both Albanian and foreign nationals. Unless the law defines it differently, the civil case may be pushed forward only by the “Parties”, who have the right to bring their claims before the court (bring a lawsuit) and to give it up as well (Article 2).

39. Adhering to international acts and respecting human rights and freedoms, the CCPRA sanctions, under separate provisions, the general legal principles to be followed up in civil case proceedings. Solution of disputes by the court based on; (i) evaluation of facts; (ii) evaluation of proofs; (iii) confrontation of the parties; (iv) their rights to protection and translation (when they do not understand Albanian language), comprise the legal guarantees for carrying out a fair, independent and impartial trial.

41. Articles 6, 7 and 8 of the PC prescribe the enforcement of penal law on Albanian nationals, on foreign nationals and aliens. These subjects, with reference to the same articles, are convicted based on the Albanian criminal law for criminal offences performed within the territory of the Republic of Albania.

42. Albanian nationals are subject to provisions of the PCRA even when they commit a crime in the territory of another state. In such circumstances, the law requires: (i) the offence to be at the same time punishable by the Albanian penal law; (ii) no final decision for the offence is given by a court of another state.

“In the context of this Article, Albanian nationals will be considered also those persons that apart from the Albanian citizenship they enjoy another citizenship” (Article 6).

44. Article 10 of the PCRA prescribes the recognition of the power of decisions made by foreign law courts (when bilateral or multilateral agreements do not state differently) for Albanian nationals convicted of criminal offences. Their enforcement within the limits of Albanian law is also made for the effect of: (i) specifying the recidivist character of the penal subject; (ii) executing decisions that contain additional punishment; (iii) enforcing security measures; (iv) remedy of damages and of other civil effects.

Article 10

47. Article 12 of the PCRA specifies strictly that the subject under criminal prosecution shall be any person who, at the time of performing a crime, has reached the age of 14, for felonies, and the age of 16 for criminal offences.

48. 49. For special felonies and criminal offences alternative sentences are prescribed by law (Articles 29, 30).

50. Characterized of the human character of the PCRA (Article 1/c), the penal law lays down indirectly that the sentence to life imprisonment is given only for male adults, excluding thus women and children.

51. Also, the same treatment is provided for juveniles,¹² who, at the time of committing a crime are below the age of eighteen. Sentences specified by law for such category should not exceed half of the sentence prescribed by penal law for such offence (Articles 33 and 51).

52. “Deportation from the territory of Albania” is a competence of law courts, which judge and decide whether further stay of a foreigner or an alien who commits a crime in the territory of the RoA will continue or not in the future (article 42).

53. Certain provisions set forth in a Special Section of the PCRA aim at the exercise of preventive effects against both, crimes and penal subjects as well.

(d) *The Code of Penal Procedures of the Republic of Albania*¹³

55. The Code of Penal Procedures of the Republic of Albania (hereinafter referred to as the CPPRA) represents a complete framework of rules compatible with modern standards of penal procedure law, provision of guarantees for fair legal proceedings (Articles 2, 3, 4, 5) where individual freedoms and legal rights of nationals are obviously respected (Articles 6, 7, 8, 9) and all of them constitutes the goal of this law.

56. The Albanian State recognizes and enforces international agreements in the penal area, which have been accepted by the government itself and supported by the standards and principles of penal international law and by the provisions of this Code (Article 10 of the CPPRA).

The levels of Courts that enforce justice in the RoA are determined by Article 12 of the CPPRA and are grouped as follows: Penal Courts of the first rank, Courts of Appeal and the Supreme Court.

¹² Persons of 14–18 years of age, that at the time of committing crime have full-up the age of being subjects of criminal actions for figures of crime or penal felonies. Specified as “person with limited abilities to act”, these persons should be assisted by adults, familiars or others in penal processes.

59. The functions of a Prosecutor are determined by Article 24 of the CPPRA. Complying with the rules laid down in this Code, he has these rights: (i) exercising penal prosecutions; (ii) following up with investigations; (iii) conducting controls in preliminary examinations; (iv) making up a charge, and (v) taking steps for execution of court decisions. Obligations of a Prosecutor for giving up a penal case, where there are reasons of partiality determined by law, are laid down in Article 26 of the CPPRA.

60. The Judicial Police is an investigating section under the authority of the District Prosecutor. Articles 30 and 33 stipulate the functions of this section, which include: (i) obligation to be informed about the criminal offence; (ii) preventing the occurrence of other events related to the criminal offence; (iii) carrying out investigations with regard to an offender, and also iv) collecting proofs and evidences for the penal proceedings.

61. Based on the definition provided for in Article 34 of the CPPRA, the Defendant is a person, who is notified by the charging organ that there exist sufficient evidences which consider him a perpetrator of the criminal offence. The Defendant bears such attribution until the final decision is given by the court convicting him as guilty or innocent, or ceasing the penal prosecution raised against him.

62. A defendant may be also a juvenile. Taking into account the peculiarity of this subject (limited capacities to act), the court is obliged to provide the juvenile with judicial/psychological assistance and to ensure the attendance of parents or his representatives at all level of the penal trial (Articles 35 and 53).

(e) *Labour Code of the Republic of Albania*¹⁶

65. The scope of the Labour Code of the Republic of Albania (hereinafter referred to as LCRA) includes judicial standards that govern the relations between the employer and the employee, either public judicial persons, private judicial persons or physical persons. This Code has been drawn up based on Articles 81 and 83/1 of the Constitution and according to the proposal of the Council of Ministers.

66. The provisions that regulate such relations have been created in compliance with the principles of the Constitution of the RoA, the standards of the international law ratified by the Parliament (Articles 1 and 2).

67. Priorities of the standards of the right to work, which are determined in Article 11 of the Labour Code, are exercised by the following legal hierarchy: (i) the Constitution; (ii)

¹⁴ Articles 1–3, 5–8, 10, 14/The European Convention on Human Rights.

¹⁵ Articles 2, 5, 7–12/Universal Declaration on Human Rights.

¹⁶ Approved under law no. 7961, dated 12.07.1995 and revised under laws approved in 1996 and 2003.

International Conventions ratified by the RoA; (iii) the Labour Code and other by-laws; (iv) Employment Collective Contract; (v) Internal rules and regulations of enterprises; (vi) Local and professional customs.

68. The implementation area of this Code includes two directions: spatial and by persons:

- “Spatial” direction is based on the principle that all types of contracts concluded between the employer and the employee are subject to the state legislation where the enterprise/workplace of the employee is located. In cases when the entireties of Employment Contract conditions are more closely connected with the law of another country, then the law of the latter is enforced. In any other circumstances, law predicts that the parties in agreement might choose the enforcement of a third law (Article 3).
- The direction “by persons” excludes, from execution scope of the law, employment practices of persons that are governed by special laws. However, “certain provisions of this Code are applied even for persons whose employment is regulated by special laws” (Article 4 of the Labor Code).

69. Article 3 of the LCRA doesn’t have any definition regarding the subjects. It refers to them under the terms “employer” and “employee”. - Labor market, giving priority to vocational formation, to selective nature of current emigration and, at the same time, paying attention to artificial aggravations that this market might incur by the movement of the most qualified people
- Economic and social integration of emigrant laborers in host countries and cooperation with governments and societies of these countries
- Our country's development, maintaining the primary aim at the binomial: Migration-Development

The development of strategies that oversee the process of migration

198. The National Migration Strategy and the National Action Plan for Migration (NAPM) – is a product of the work of the Albanian government, which approved this documents by its Decision dated 11/19/2004. The program for the development of this strategy was achieved under the technical assistance of the IOM Office in Tirana and it was funded by the Program CARDS 2001 of EC.

199. Notwithstanding the time of its development, this strategy is in full compliance with commitments undertaken by the RoA with regard to the Frame Convention.

200. The strategy deals with occurrences of Albanian migration overall its scope. The development of migratory movements, the demography of migration, its effect on our country's economy and on labor market, and also the foreign policy of Albania, are the main topics that carry over a detailed analysis of migration situation of our country.

201. This document displays clearly the attitude of the Albanian Government to a delicate matter like migration. For its specifics and importance, it must be pointed out that, despite the alteration of political forces in the RoA, the approach of the Albanian Government towards this problem has been unchangeable. The support and guarantees provided by the Albanian government for the management and direction to the right way of the migration process, this document obviously determines and specifies the governmental structures considering migration as a prioritized element in the government program of the country.

202. In addition, the development of global and European policies by the RoA and identification of the needs for development, are two elements which are discussed in this document under the topic of “Policies of EU for Albania”.

203. The second part of this document is concentrated on the guidance for migration policies which is to be accomplished in various directions. The first direction is “The combat against illegal migration”, which is represented through an analysis specifying the causes of migration and forecasting theoretically confrontation with the problem of immigrant deportation to their countries of origin.

204. The support for Albanian emigrants, improvement of the image of emigrants abroad, the protection of their rights, improvement of Albanian diplomatic and consular services in host countries, leading emigrants to invest their allowances in various business activities, registration of emigrants, information about migration opportunities, the policy on visas, etc are some of the issues that are discussed under the topic of “Migration and the Development of Albania”, which is the second direction. The third direction is the improvement in Albania of the regulatory and legal framework on migration, while the fourth direction specifies the needs for establishing appropriate institutional structures for the management of migration policies.

205. The implementation of this strategy was associated with the National Plan on Migration, which was approved on 6th May 2005 and its implementation will last until 2010. This action plan includes 66 measures undertaken within the framework for the implementation of the National Strategy on Migration. The plan also determines responsible organizations for the implementation of these measures, the scope of activities, implementation schedules, human resources, indicators of achievements and financing budget.

206. The National Strategy for Integral Management of Borders and the Action Plan were worked out and approved in 2006. It is a product of the inter-institutional cooperation of the Police for Borders and Migration in the Ministry of Interior, the Customs Service of Albania in the Ministry of Finance (MF) and the Veterinary and Phyto-Sanitary Services in the Ministry of Agriculture, Food and Consumer Protection (MAFCP).

207. This strategy was drawn up with the support and assistance of the MIK CARDS Regional Program, Police Assistance Mission (PAMECA) in Albania, the Customs and Fiscal Assistance Office – Albania (EU-CAFAO-Albania) and the International Criminal Investigation and Training Assistance Program (ICITAP).

208. The strategy aims at creating open borders, but controlled and secured. Coordination and cooperation between all authorities and agencies involved in the security of borders and facilities of trade, intends to establish effective and efficient systems for integral management of Albanian borders.

209. The institutional structure, responsible for the implementation of this strategy, comprises three institutions: MoI, MoF and MAFCP. Other structures, under the authority of these three institutions, which are established at boundary points include the following:

- The structure of Police for Borders and Migration in the MoI
- The structure of the Albanian Customs Service in the MoF
- The structure of Phyto-Sanitary Service in the MAFCP

- The structure of Veterinary Service in the MAFCP

210. Action Plan of National Strategy for Integral Management of Borders as referred to the Frame Convention, describes the cooperation between the above-mentioned structures, which are directly related to migratory movement of Albanian and foreign nationals.

1. The history of Albanian migration

215. A glance at Albanian migration.

- Albanians constitute one of the largest group of emigrants from third countries in EU
- About 1 million emigrants from an overall population of 3.4 million inhabitants
- 22–25% of overall population
- 35% of active population
- The Albanian migration fluxes are 5–6 times greater than those from developing countries, in proportion with the active population

216. Confrontation of Albania with the phenomenon of migration is very early. Phases of its development have passed through different historical periods.

⁴¹ The following information is taken from the web site of the Ministry of Labor, Social Affairs and Equal Opportunities.

217. The first great wave of massive migration began early in 15-18 centuries. Due to the occupation of the country by ottoman invaders this movement of emigrants didn't stop even during the 19-20 centuries (second wave), which began again with a massive emigration of population in '90 (third wave). Migratory movements of Albanian nationals made during 19-20 centuries constitute the so-called "Albanian modern migration".

218. The Albanian modern migration comprises three periods including: (i) migratory fluxes before the year 1944, (ii) The Albanian Diaspora created by migration of population over a period between 1945 and 1990, and (iii) considerable migratory fluxes after 1990.

219. The migratory fluxes of Albanians before the year 1944 had the destination mainly the American continent. States such as USA and those of Latin America were the first countries to receive the first Albanian immigrants during that period. The motive that pushed these "classic immigrants" to move towards the American continent was the need for physical/monetary incomes necessary for securing the livelihood of their families in Albania.

220. The going to kurbet, a synonym with the present term of "migration", was achieved through family or friendly relations. The governments of those times, because not only of political developments, but also the lack of arrangements in economic and social areas, haven't recorded any evidences with accurate figures and data for the sizes of these migratory fluxes. However, in small sizes, these fluxes were characterized by the economic motives and by the voluntary individual movement of "immigrant labors" of the time.

221. Migrations, which continued after 1945, in most cases had political character. Establishment of communist regime in Albania created dissatisfactions among individuals of medium and high strata of population of the period before liberation. Confiscation of their properties, their personal and family persecution by the communist regime made these strata consider the movement from the country the only solution. The Albanian government opposed and counteracted strongly against these movements with all advisory and punitive means. It adopted drastic political and legal measures and one of them was that the Penal Code of that time prescribed "the movement from the country" as a criminal offence.

222. Although in small sizes, this kind of "illegal migration" of the time was achieved by surrendering to another country and requesting political asylum. The routes for leaving the country were land, sea and river borders of the Albanian territory. Because of difficult conditions for crossing the border (long routes by walking, maritime miles by swimming) such individual initiatives failed very often causing fatalities for the lives of these individuals and their families.

223. The third phase of Albanian migrations begins after the year 1990.

2. The causes of Albanian migration after 1990

224. The fall of the communist regime and the establishment of an open system to the world in 1990, urged the Albanians to seek and hope for the prosperity and happiness transmitted by the radio and television propaganda of the West.

225. Political changes from the monist system to the pluralist system were associated with the alteration of the economic and administrative superstructure creating an unemployed army and "free labor forces" in cities and villages.

226. Transition period and numerous economic difficulties following the collapse of "pyramid schemes", insecurity of life and of public order, were continuous incentives for many nationals to leave and seek for a better fate especially in Italy and Greece.

227. Another reason that gave rise to leave Albania legally or illegally was the attempt of the families of emigrants to join them in host countries.

228. It is obviously aware that problems of Albanian migration were carried on to neighboring countries, members of the EU. Uncontrolled movements of immigrants have been for a long time a great concern for both, our country and western and southeastern neighbors, Italy and Greece. Presently, the time for guarding seacoast line and land borders with police barriers and dividing walls has remained behind. Albania today is one step towards its accession to EU. Its achievements prove that it is already a deserved partner with its regional relations and a candidate evaluated positively by international alliances.

3. The phases of Albanian migrations after 1990

229. Migratory fluxes over the time period between 1990 and 1992 were entirely uncontrolled. They were connected just with the moment of the collapse of the communist regime in Albania, which brought forth political, social and economical destabilization of the country. At that time, approximately 300 thousands Albanian nationals left the native land with every means and through every route. The “illegal crossing of borders” (without visas and identification documents), of land, sea and river borders, was made on foot and swimming through state boundary or using occasional national and international means of road and sea transportation.

- In July 1990 – more than 5,000 people entered the embassies of Italy, Germany and France for the purpose of leaving the country. By the end of 1990, more than 20,000 Albanian nationals left the country towards Greece using land routes, where they requested political asylum.
- In March 1991 – a great number of Albanian nationals rushed into the Durrës Seaport, the biggest seaport in the country. Taking under control several vessels of the Commercial Maritime Fleet forced them to sail and land on the seaports of Southern Italy. A similar situation was repeated a few months later, in August, when about 18,000 people, after taking control of several vessels disembarked on the Italian seacoasts.

230. Although migration flows decreased over the period from 1992 to 1996, nationals continued to leave the country. That period was relatively characterized of political stability and social-economic progress. The official figures of that time speak for an increase of the GDP by 9% a year during 1993–1996 (as compared with 1990). In agriculture, land titles were transferred from collective to private ownership. Allowances of emigrants sent to Albania over the period 1993–1995 increased to about 25% of the GDP, something which influenced the improvement of living standards for Albanian families. Such process, associated further with the strengthening of border controls and application of “milder” policies by some countries, reduced in some way the volume of migratory fluxes.

- According to an estimation of the PNUD made by the end of 1996, the number of Albanian nationals living permanently outside Albania reached approximately to 350,000 nationals. Referring to the figures by the end of 1993, the increase of these fluxes was considered restraining (about 50,000 people).

231. Migratory fluxes over the years 1996-97 were inflicted by the bankruptcy of pyramid schemes and the political and social turmoil broken up all over the country. These schemes, arranged illegally, emerged as an alternative to the undeveloped banking sector. Their deceptive and vertiginous increase of interests became aware in 1996, when they offered such interests which amounted from 15% to 100% of three-month period deposits. This increasing crisis affected about one third of overall population of the country. Consequently, migratory fluxes revived and they got the features of “involuntary migrations” and even of “forceful migrations” at that time.

232. Combination of social and economic factors such as: unemployment, insecurity, poverty, general economic problems, forced thousands of people to leave the country within few months. During the period from December '96 to April '97, about 30,000 emigrants moved to Italy, while 40 thousands to Greece (most of them were deported a bit later). In this period, the presence of the international community through multinational protection forces headed by Italy played an important role for the reduction of migratory flows. However, by the mid of 1997, when, fortunately, the most extreme alarm of the crisis had passed, altogether 16,798 Albanian nationals had crossed the waters of the Adriatic Sea towards Italy.

233. Finally, at the beginning of 1998, there was a considerable improvement of political, economical and social conditions of the country. Over the time period between 1997 and 2000, the economy experienced satisfactory recovery with the increase of the GDP by 7.5%. Also, in the year period from 1997 to 2000, there was a fall of inflation and reduction of state deficit from 12.7% to 9.2% of GDP. These improvements, along with favorable policies applied by both neighboring countries, Italy and Greece, gave rise to the increase of legal migratory fluxes and the decrease the flows of illegal migrations.

- According to evaluations of the PNUD, during the time period between 1990 and 1997, the majority of Albanian emigrants were illegal. By the end of 1997, there were numbered 150 Albanian nationals in Italy, of which, only 82 thousands nationals were registered. In 1998-1999, for the first time for Albanian migration in the last decade, the proportion between legal and illegal emigrants was balanced.
- Of about 200 thousands Albanians living in Italy, 130 thousands were regular residents. The application by the Italian Government of a special program for the legalization of aliens (in 1999) there were numbered 30 thousands Albanian immigrants who managed to get in Italy the status of regular residence.
- A similar process was distinguished in Greece. In 1997, a deep disproportion was marked between Albanian illegal and legal immigrants (350 thousands against 10 thousands respectively). Within the years 1997-1999, the Greek government applied a scheme for the legalization of illegal immigrants residing in its territory. From 372 thousands foreign immigrants that applied for provision of temporary residence permits, 65% of them were Albanian nationals.

4. Statistics of migration after 1990

234. Migratory fluxes of Albanian nationals at that time comprised mainly the following:

- Individuals who migrated in search of a better job and life
- Individuals who migrated for political motives and constituted the first contingents of Albanian refugees and asylum-seekers
- Individuals who migrated for reasons of family, ethnic or religious relations with areas beyond the borders of their country, especially in Greece and rarely in Italy
- Individuals who migrated for educational purposes and were precursors of student migratory fluxes
- Individuals who migrated from their own country just in response of tempting factors and lures of life in the West, having no clear migratory project
- Children who joined their emigrant parents and emigrated mainly for employment causes
- Unaccompanied children

235. The Migration Study Center in Tirana delivered a report in 2005 obtained from interviews conducted with various individuals relating to their inclinations for countries they wished to migrate to. Some figures are displayed below.

236. Changes in the structure of migratory fluxes:

- Increasing number of trained emigrants.
- Increasing number of students that are selecting and are able to complete their studies abroad.
- Feminization of Albanian migration, which is achieved not only by passive migrations (family reunion) but also by independent female migrations, almost has balanced the proportion male-female emigrants. However, such undertaking remains still a male activity, which puts forth the task for encouragement of female migrations.

5. Features of Albanian migration over years

- The age factor: the first generation of emigrants is presently reaching pension age and the second generation is completing schooling or the periphery of labor market.
- The geographic dispersal: the bulk of Albanian migratory communities is settled in Greece (more than 50%), which is followed by another neighboring country, Italy. Other communities are settled in United Kingdom, France, Germany, USA, etc.

- Settlements under the influence of the opinion of the host country: it was a feature revealed in the first decade of Albanian migration. Practically, in his daily life, an emigrant has to face out prejudices, occurrences of victimization and incrimination, which very often occurred based on perceptions and not on facts. This public opinion was mainly a negative product of certain medium, especially of local ones.
- “Ethnic ghettos”, where Albanian immigrants are settled, do not affect at all their integration in the economic and social life of the country of their employment. This feature has affected only a little the community of Albanian migration, but it does not appear to be its actual tendency.
- Human capital: The greatest numbers of Albanian emigrants have still a lower level of vocational formation and education. Very qualified emigrants and of distinguished talents are employed in sectors that do not suit to their abilities and to jobs that have previously done in the country of origin. Currently, not only due to their bulk presence, especially in two countries, Greece and Italy, Albanian immigrants contribute significantly to the system of social care.
- The management of migratory process of the Albanian migrations: it was a new experience for Albania, which found it unprepared for the management of migratory outflow occurred after '90. In addition, two host countries, Greece and Italy, were also unprepared to receive massive influxes, which were mostly illegal.
- The proportion active migration/passive migration: The family migration was increasingly becoming larger. It was advantageous and conditioned on cultural, geographic and linguistic close relations and also on the lower costs for migration to the neighboring countries. This process was associated with higher numbers of children migration, accompanied or unaccompanied one. Step by step the Albanian migration pursued the general tendency of its feminization, which was conditioned and favored by the relative facilities for female employment in certain sectors such as services, house work, etc. However, according to a tendency of migration all over the world, the level of unemployment among immigrants is very high as compared with native people.
- Long-term or short-term migration?: it was really a “puzzle”, which varied in accordance with employment opportunities offered by migratory policies applied by the neighbouring countries. The geographic vicinity with these countries, where the greatest number of the Albanian migration is settled, in several cases, has supported periodical deportation of immigrants. However, policies applied, from time to time, by our neighbours for the regulation of the indecent situation of Albanian immigrants, and also the maintenance to some extent of the level of revenues accrued from the work of immigrants, demonstrate that the proportion of long-term migration and short-term migration is respectively 60/40%.
- The synergy between economic/vocational activities of host countries and also in Albania: Despite its patterns (for survival and consume), which have been characteristics of the 1990s, the Albanian migration has been employed as a factor of economic, social, cultural and political development.

237. In support of the National Migration Strategy (NMS) special attention is being paid more and more to the voluntary return of emigrants, which is also supported by adoption of required integrating policies and programs. In addition, from the first stage of its development, migration of people has been associated with concrete actions for making use of their allowances and their virtual capacities as financial sources and developing factors of the community.

6. Regimes of employment policies outside Albania

238. The main regimes of employment policies abroad differ subject to the field of social policy, to organizations that apply this policy, to the role of the market for determining that “where?”, in “what conditions?” the labor forces will be employed and “how?” is migration organized for employment purposes. Traditionally, the regime of employment policies abroad is classified into four systems of categories, which are identified based on the role played by the state and on the labor market in the process of employment abroad (emigration).

239. The liberal system (Laissez-faire) – it is applied in countries with higher influxes of immigrant workers from other countries. There, the management of the “received labor forces” is conducted based on the demands of the internal labor market. In such case, the state doesn’t define any exclusive regulatory framework for the process of recruiting “cheap labor forces” coming from abroad.

240. The system based on rules – it is a typical case of the system based on migration rules for employment motives. The state of the country of origin of immigrant laborers adopts laws and by-laws for conducting the recruitment of nationals to be employed abroad. This legal framework includes predetermined recruitment practices and forecasts, case by case, penalties for their violators. Employment of labor forces is entirely dependent on market, however, the state intends to influence on it by playing the role of a “legal representative” of the domestic labor market.

241. The system managed by the state – where the state regulates not merely employment abroad, but also it establishes public institutions for recruiting and mediating workers abroad. The essential difference between this system and the system based on rules is the inclusion of the state in the planning and encouraging an active policy for employment abroad. Such policy doesn’t start and end with recruitments. It starts with interferences in the labor markets for the increase and administration of the capacities of individual abilities in the market, inducing domestic agencies to offer employment services in host countries and it continues with the establishment of employment standards and the protection of the rights of the employees.

242. The state monopoly system – it is a category where the state takes alone and entirely the responsibility for organization of migrations for employment purposes. In such policy regimes, there is no space for the activities of private mediators in recruitment and sending nationals to foreign countries. The state, through its specialized instruments, like state enterprise, acts as the sole contractor to provide services to its nationals. Foreign employers, who want to employ workers, should enter into negotiations with the state enterprise, which might act either the role of a service contractor, or the role of a bidder of labor forces.

243. Regarding the fact that what system is presently applied in the RoA, it might be stated that, at least as a regime of policies for employment abroad, our country is far from the two extreme points, i.e. liberal regime and state monopoly. Policies followed by the Albanian governments, so far, have aimed at the adoption of the system of state management. For the complexity itself and the lack of experience for such process, in spite of clear targets, this commitment requires its necessary time. However, we are making further good steps towards the establishment and operation of this system.

C. The actual situation relating to the practical enforcement of the Convention by the Republic of Albania

1. Migration

244. At the present stage, we are confronting the problem of collection of statistical information about migration, which is not regular and periodic. This occurs due to a number of different factors related to organization and operation of public bodies that are dealing with migration. Contemporary interpretation and processing of this information is another stage which needs to put together institutional common efforts for making use of required human resources and inputs from major ministries.

245. Recognizing such a challenge, the respective organizations are taking the first steps for keeping required registers not only by the Migratory Policy Directorate, but also in Local Regional Migratory Employment Offices (LREMO). These efforts will not only remain on undertaking relevant measures for registration of emigrants, but also on conducting required operations with the registers of Civil Status Offices. Application of the monitoring/coordinating systems of the National Migration Strategy (NMS) and the National Plan for Enforcement of the National Employment Strategy (NPENES) under the leading role of the Directorate of Migratory Policy, Return and Reintegration (DMPRR) has resulted to be quite positive in fulfilling the tasks of the organizations of the line involved in the migratory process.

246. Main causes for migration of Albanian nationals.

- Higher salaries
- Supporting the family financially
- Better working conditions
- Better living conditions
- Better educational conditions for themselves and for their family members

Albanian migration to Italy

247. In Italy, Albanians comprise the second community, as compared to the number of national foreigners residing there, approximately 420,000 Albanian nationals. There is equilibrium in the proportion of males/females within Albanian community and this has been affected by reunion of families. The greatest number of Albanian emigrants comprises the age-group from 18 to 40 years and two thirds of them are married.

248. Employment in Italy is regulated according to the influxes of foreign nationals from countries non-members of EU, but with preferential quotas for the Albanian nationals. Based on the figures provided by the Italian Ministry of Interior, during the time period between 2005 and 2007, about 41.221 applications for employment have been submitted to the Unique Counters of Immigration.

249. The returning process of Albanian emigrants, who stay there irregularly, is characterized by a curve of outflows, which in recent years has become gradually lower. Implementation of this process has been supported also by foreign projects, which objectives have been the support for Albanian nationals return voluntarily and even help them with the establishment of micro-enterprises and with their employment. Over the period 2005–2007, under the assistance of the project “Welcome again”, there are numbered 500 Albanian emigrants returned from Italy.

250. Information made available by the MLSAEO and those received from other sources such as: Caritas/Migrantes “Albanesi in Italia 2008”, shown in tables 4 and 5, as well as figure 1, speaks for the category of employed people and their sectors of employment.

Albanian migration to Greece

251. From the general registration of population made by INSTAT in 2001, it resulted that the number of Albanian emigrants in Greece marked 443,550 people. Statistics of the Center for Economic and Social Studies (CESS), which refer to data received from the Ministry of Labor and Social Affairs in Greece at that period, shows that Albanian migration in Greece amounts to 507.000 emigrants.

252. According to Greek scholars of CESS, Charalambos Kasimis and Chryssa Kassimi, July 2004[8], Albanians are distinguished in all sectors of activity, where foreign population is employed. Also, according to these scholars, a great number of Albanian emigrants, employed informally in sectors of agriculture and small businesses, do not benefit from the rights of employees.

253. This situation doesn't allow employees under irregular situations to enter into syndicates, although, as a community, they try to protect their labor rights.

254. Females, who comprise 41% of the Albanian migratory community, according to the General Registration of Population – 2001, declare that they are employed in the rubric of "various categories". This category includes jobs in agricultural and tourism sectors, but mostly in house works (house cleaning and maintenance).

255. In the regulatory framework for governing the residence status, in June 2003 and October 2004, 80% of Albanians declared employment as the primary motive of their migration to Greece. Other declared family reunion, studies, business and marriage.

256. Based on the data provided by the Statistical Bureau of Greece – 2005, the migratory population in Greece is very young: 21,3% belongs to the age group from 1 to 14 years old; 36,5% of the age of 15–29 years; 28,8% of the age group from 30–44 years and 13,4% above the age of 45 years.

257. The emigrant contingent of Albanian nationals capable to work in Greece is employed in the sectors of construction, agriculture, services or and other sectors (figure II).

258. Based on the law “For Foreigners” (1999, 2008) and on other by-laws issued for its enforcement, the Directorate of Migratory Policy, Return and Reintegration (DMPRR), in cooperation with the Local Regional Employment Offices (LREO), during the period January–December 2006, have provide 857 foreign nationals with Work Permits, which are shown in the following figures and tables.

Provision of foreigners with work permits 2006

259. Figures reported for that year, relating to the provision of foreigners with work permits, speak for:

- (i) 673 employees, 82 employers and 58 self-employed;
- (ii) 501 foreign nationals have applied for work permits for the first time;
- (iii) 312 foreign national have renewed their work permits;
- (iv) 44 work permits have been terminated by National Employment Service because of suspension of employment relations.

Figure V
Entries of foreign nationals for the first time

260. From the analytic evaluation of above figures, it results that influxes of foreign nationals coming for employment motives in the RoA are as follows:

- Comparing the total number of work permits delivered in the previous years, an increasing tendency of foreigners' interest to come and work and live in Albania is evidenced
- Foreign nationals show greater interests in investments, mainly in production sector, gamble games, trade, construction, education, services, confections, banking system, media transmissions, health, etc.
- The majority of foreign nationals that are carrying out different activities are mainly settled in the districts of Tirana, Elbasani, Korça, Durrësi, Vlora, Kruja, Fieri, etc.
- Foreign nationals working in Albania are primarily of Turkish, Greek, Italian, Rumanian, Macedonian, American, Egyptian, etc. citizenship
- There is an increasing tendency of foreigners for the renewal of their work permits due to the strengthening of expecting role by the Public Service Institute
- There is a considerable increase in the number of foreign nationals having the status of the employer

261. Referring to the above figures, it must be highlighted the fact that the number of work permits delivered by the MLSAEO do not show the real number of foreign influxes that are economically active. It indicates only that portion of foreign labor forces that is subject to the exercise of controlled and regular economic activity.

Nationals supplied with work permits over the period January–December 2007

262. The National Employment Service supplied work permits to 897 foreign nationals that have worked in Albania during the period of January–December 2007, of which, 771 nationals belong to the status of the “Employee”, 89 nationals to the “Employer” status and 37 national of the “Self-employed” status. There are actually 1184 foreign nationals that are excluded from the obligation of getting work permits because they hold already their work permits.

265. Foreign nationals that have worked at that time have been of Turkish, Chinese, Italian, Greece, Macedonian, Kosovo, English, Bulgarian, etc. citizenship, etc. (table 10).

266. A tendency is noticed there for an increasing interest of foreigners to be supplied and to renew their work permits. Also, there is a considerable increase of the number of foreign nationals having the status of the “Employer”, especially Chinese and Turkish nationals.

D. Information about the steps undertaken by Albania for the publicity and promotion of the Convention

268. One of the steps taken by the Albanian state for the publicity and promotion of the Convention “On the protection of the rights of all immigrant laborers and members of their families” is its publication in the Official Gazette no. 47/2007. Publication of this Convention is made by the Official Publication Center, a state agency under the authority of the Ministry of Justice.

269. The Ministry of Labor, Social Affairs and Equal Opportunities (MLSAEO) – The most useful methods for provision of information in the event of admission, employment and accomplishment of profitable activities in Albania have been the publication of specific Manuals such as: “Regular employment in Italy” and “Regular employment in Greece”, which are published already, while the publication of “Regular employment in Great Britain” is expected. At the same time, a similar Manual for Albanian emigrants who want to work and live in Canada is under way. These Manuals provide details of practical character related to the types of employment, the rights and obligations in host countries, etc.

270. In addition, there are numerous advertisements made by this Ministry in TV and daily press. It is also worth mentioning preparation of leaflets and brochures on certain themes about migration including the return of emigrants to their countries of origin.

271. Following this initiation, the MLSAEO, in its web page in internet <http://www.mpcs.gov.al>, has developed a special rubric under the heading of “Migration”. From this page, Albanian and foreign nationals can get required information relating to domestic and international legislation on Migration applicable in the RoA. Also, through a mini-rubric “Emigrants ask”, Albanian emigrants or any other interested person can be informed about such issues like employment in Italy and Greece, the provision of residence permits in host countries (Italy, Germany), validity of employment documentation, etc.

272. With regard to immigrants, a Manual is under preparation in cooperation with the Ministry of Interior under the provisional title: “To come, to live and to work in the Republic of Albania”.

273. Information for abroad is transmitted through diplomatic and consular representatives of the RoA. Cooperation with the structures of the line include those in the Ministry of Justice and the MFA respectively, i.e. the Directorate of Border and Migration and the Consular Directorate. In the local level, the Local Regional Employment Office (LREO) is also involved in transmission of such information.

Part II

Information with regard to each article of the Convention

A. General principles

Article 1 (1)

Non-discrimination

274. Article 18/1 of the Constitution of the RoA stipulates that “all are equal before law”. Based on this principle, the following paragraph of this Article secures without discrimination the rights and freedoms of emigrant laborers and members of their families on no ground such as gender, race, religion, entity, language; political, religious and philosophical beliefs; economic, educational and social situation or parental origin. In any other circumstances, restriction in the exercise of the rights and freedoms due to above-mentioned ground is deemed to be closely connected with the aims of the actions of the subject in the Frame Convention, and undoubtedly with the object of illegitimate actions, whether these are prescribed as such by law.

275. With the law no. 9547, dated 01.06.2006, “For the ratification of the Convention no. 168 of the International Labor Organization, “For encouraging employment and protection from unemployment, 1988), the RoA, as a Party State, a member in the Frame Convention, has taken all required steps for the coordination of protection systems against unemployment and employment policy, ensuring equal treatment for all persons without discrimination because of race, gender, belief, political opinion, nationality, citizenship, social or ethnic origin, disability or age.

276. With the law no. 9773, dated 12.07.2007, the RoA has ratified the Convention of the International Labor Organization “For workers with family responsibilities, C 156, 1981”. Introducing provisions of this Convention impose the Albanian Government the responsibility to ensure effective equality of abilities and treatment of workers, men and women. Such equality enables the persons with family responsibility, who are employed, or wish to be employed, the exercise of the rights for accomplishing such a thing without being discriminated and without any conflict, between profession and family responsibilities. Also, this provision defines that the term “discrimination” means the discrimination at work and profession, as it has been defined by Articles 1 and 5 of the Convention on Discrimination of the year 1958 (Employment and Profession).

277. The law no. 8960, dated 24.10.2002, “For the ratification of the European Social Charter, revised”, specifies that all persons with family responsibility that are employed or wish to be employed have the right to do it without being discriminated and without any conflicts between their family responsibilities and employment. With respect to this, no one shall be privileged or discriminated because of gender, race, religion, entity, language, political, religious and ideological beliefs, economical, educational, social situation, parental origin. Any restriction by the public administration should be in compliance with limitations prescribed by law and only when they are necessary in the interest of public safety or for the protection of the rights and freedoms of others, however, they should proportionally respect the rights and freedoms of the individual.

416. Measures specified in the National Strategy for Migration (NSM) aim at:

- Improvement and expansion of bank services for emigrants, who are in host countries and their relatives who live in their country of origin (mainly in cities and rural areas), for instance, through intermediation of "corresponding banking institutions"
- Encouraging the banks in host countries, through the assistance of associations of Albanian immigrants, to determine "ad hoc" products, especially for the immigrants
- Establishment of funds for local development to support investments financed by emigrants' allowances
- Assistance for the institutions of micro-credit and micro-finance for implementation of policies aiming at the channelization of emigrants allowances through agreements with financial institutions of host countries
- Encouraging associations of emigrants for inducing local development through voluntary collection of donations from their members for funding various projects in their cities or villages

417. The amounts of individual or family savings of emigrants depend on the duration of their stay in host countries, the kind of work performed and the time period of their employment, salary level, and expenditures of daily life and on the amounts of allowances that they send to their native country every year.

418. With regard to Albanian emigrants, apart from the transfer of their allowances, they also accumulate their savings in the banks of host countries. Mainly in Greece and Italy, the savings of Albanian immigrants are estimated to considerable amounts in EUR. In 1992, or two years following massive migration, Albanian immigrants in Greece had deposited in Greek banks about 89 millions USD. Based on an interview conducted with long-term legal emigrants, their average annual savings amount to 5 thousands EUR. Most of them (68,6%) have deposited their savings in the banks of host countries.

This information can be also received through phone contacts with the competent authorities at the Consular Directorate in the MFA, the Directorate of Migration Policy, Repatriation and Reintegration and also from Albanian embassies and consular office accredited abroad.

423. The entries, transit pass and exits of foreigners in and out of the Albanian territory are prescribed by Article 7 of the law “For foreigners”. 426. Procedures for granting the residence permit specify that immigrant laborers and their family members, who wish to stay more than 90 days in the RoA shall receive the residence permit from the Directorate for Border and Migration. Application for residence permit will be submitted to the Regional Directorates for Border and Migration, where a certain subject has settled his temporary residence.

427. Immigrant laborers are provided with work permits by the Local Regional Employment Office (LREO), which delivers such permissions taking into account the development and needs of labor market in the RoA. This authority, before the approval of the application of an immigrant worker seeking a job, should evaluate whether such work post can be obtained by: (i) an Albanian unemployed job-seeker; (ii) by foreigners, family members of Albanian nationals; (iii) family members of immigrant workers, who reside and work in the RoA; (iv) nationals from the EU member countries or from countries with which the RoA have signed bilateral and multilateral agreements; (v) job-seekers who enjoy the priority in domestic labor market; (vi) foreigners with regular residents in the RoA, who have practiced and are practicing continuously lawful activities in Albanian territories.

428. The types of work permits for economic activities of foreigners in the territory of the RoA are specified in Article 48 of the law “For foreigners” shown in table 11.

Table 13

2.	B (B/VP, B/I)	Economic independent	Self-employed, investors
3.	C	Special	Personnel of cross border transport, students, representatives of international organizations

429. Cases provided for by law that limits the right to the delivery of work permits are connected with the refusal of the delivery/renewal of residence permit and declaring work permissions invalid.

430. Based on Article 25 of the law “For foreigners”, immigrant workers and members of their families are refused the delivery/renewal of residence permits when: (i) they haven’t handed over residence permits on schedule and without any reason; (ii) they do not certify/meet conditions for residence permits provided for by law; (iii) they are suffering from diseases, which threaten public health; (iv) there are causes for their expulsion; (v) they have become subjects to expulsion/prohibition of residence; (vi) dissolution of marriage, which have provided them with residence permits and family union; (vii) they have failed with or have changed the purpose of residence.

431. The work permit of an immigrant worker/his family member becomes invalid, despite the expiry date of its validity, when (i) its validity cannot be renewed for any kind of reason; (ii) the expiry date of the passport or of the document of identification cannot be postponed; (iii) the immigrant worker lives outside the Albanian territory for a period of more than 6 months in succession, excluding the events of force majeure for such absence; (iv) the immigrant worker doesn’t begin his activity within 3 months from the date of the delivery of work permit (Article 47 of the law “For foreigners”).

Articles 40, 41 and 42Right to form associations and trade unions; right to participate in public affairs of their State of origin and to vote and to be elected at elections of that State; procedure and institutions taking care of the needs of migrant workers and possible enjoyment of political rights in the State of employment

432. Article 46 of the Constitution of the RoA secures the right of immigrant workers and of members of their families to form and join associations and trade unions. Their aims and activities shall not be in conflict with constitutional provisions.

433. Article 10 of the Labor Code ensures the right to form and join trade unions by immigrant workers and members of their families under the same conditions like Albanian nationals. Institution of “Strike”, as a form of collective organization, is defined in Article 197 of this Code. Trade unions are entitled to exercise the right to strikes for the solution of their economic and social requirements in accordance with rules and regulation determined under this Code. Participation in strikes is voluntary. No one is forced to participate in a strike against his wish and will, and other actions including pressure, threat or discrimination towards employees, because of participation or non-participation in strikes, are forbidden by law.

434. The law “For migration of Albanian nationals for employment motives” (Article 7), ensures the right to representation of Albanian emigrants and members of their families. They have the right, through their representatives elected by their organizations/associations, to contact and cooperate with central or local government organs of the Albanian state as well as with Albanian diplomatic and consular representative offices in host countries, for expressing and protecting their interests in compliance with legal provisions in force.

435. Participation in political affairs of the Albanian state is a constitutional right ensured to Albanian emigrant workers and to members of their families by Article 45 of the Constitution. According to this provision, every emigrant worker or members of his family that have reached the age of eighteen (even on the date of election) has the right of electing or being elected. Nationals of mental disability, declared as such by a final court decision, are excluded from the exercise of the right to election. The vote is individual, equal and confidential.

436. The law “For migration of Albanian nationals for employment motives”, in Article 6, ensures the right to active participation in the political life of the country of Albanian emigrant workers and of members of their families. The responsible state authorities have the task to create all necessary facilities for the Albanian emigrants to exercise their right to vote. The exercise of the right to vote by these subjects is made in respect of legal provisions of the Election Code of the RoA and legislation of host countries.

437. The Directorate for Employment Relations is the responsible structure in the Ministry of LSAEO, which is dealing with the activities of trade unions.

Articles 43, 54 and 55

Principle of equal treatment with nationals of the State of employment in relation to the issues indicated; equality of treatment as a protection against dismissal, unemployment; equality of treatment in the exercise of remunerated activity

438. The Constitution of the RoA ensures that “human rights and fundamental freedoms as well as obligations defined for Albanian nationals are equally valid for foreign nationals”.

439. The protection of human rights and fundamental freedoms of all Albanian emigrant laborers and members of their families doesn’t constitute a duty for Albania any longer. The ratification of the Frame Convention is already a commitment of the Albanian state as a State Party to the Frame Convention for ensuring the rights of this social-economic stratum. Regular employment of foreign nationals brings forth also those rights enjoyed by Albanian nationals employed in such jobs. Adherence to employment conditions, security and hygiene in workplaces are subject to inspections carried out by inspectors of the Public Health Institute (PHI). The salary for an accomplished work is the same for equal work. Also, the Labor Code obligates employers to respect the provisions of such Code without any discrimination with regard to dismissal from work, preliminary notification and the right to appeal, etc.

440. Vocational formation is a category of economic activities that is offered to immigrant workers in the territory of Albania (Article 54). These subjects are provided with work permits for vocational formation, “A/FP”, under the same time validity like activities of professional formation. They should demonstrate that such formation is closely linked with the improvement of their skills and qualification.

441. There are actually no real steps undertaken by Albanian competent organs for this category of foreigners. However, legislation that governs the activities of vocational formation system in our country has no legal barriers for free attendance of vocational formation courses. This category doesn’t benefit any facility or assistance for the attendance of above mentioned courses such as reduced costs or free of charge.

442. Courses of vocational formation, which are organized in public centers for vocational training, provide professional knowledge on such sectors like: auto service, duralumin repair, plumbing, electro-mechanics, repair of sun heating panel, repair of household electrical appliances, repair of conditioners, heating and ventilation systems, welding, hydro-sanitary wares, electrician, constructor, etc.

443. With respect to payments for unemployment, referring to the Decision no. 223, dated 19.04.2006, "For payments of unemployment", in order to benefit such payment, this contingent is treated under the same conditions that are to be fulfilled by Albanian employees, which are specified in point one of this decision:

- To have contributed for social insurances over a period at least 12 months, for each beneficiary
- To have been registered as unemployed job-seekers at the relevant employment office
- To have submitted the written application and to fill in relevant documentations within 60 days from the date of enjoying this right

444. Regarding the payments for unemployment, Article 64 of the law "For foreigners", point 2, specifies that unemployment doesn't constitute sufficient reason for the termination of work permit, provided that (i) the time of unemployment doesn't exceed three months over the time period of 12 months, and when the holder of a residence permit has exercised lawful activities as an employee or self-employed person in the RoA for not less than three years, and (ii) six months within a period of 12 months, and when the holder of a residence permit has exercised lawful activities as an employee or self-employed person in the RoA for more than three years.

445. Financial difficulties are not regarded as sufficient reasons for the termination of work permit of a self-employed person, except the case when the holder of such permit is not able to afford living costs.

Statistics

The Ministry of Interior reports that there has been no denouncement against officials of responsible agencies for prolongation of procedures for provision of immigrant workers with residence permits.

The current Albanian legislation doesn't specify the inclusion of immigrant laborers in the schemes of social services.

Articles 44 and 50

Protection of the unity of the families of migrant workers and reunifications of migrant workers; consequences of death or dissolution of marriage

446. The Constitution of the RoA ensures special protection for the family (Article 53).

447. Articles 32, 33 and 34 of the law "For foreigners" secure the protection of the family unity and natural community of immigrant laborers. Based on such provisions, every immigrant laborer who resides regularly in the territory of Albania can send an application to the local office of DBM requiring the arrival of his family members and reunion of the family.

448. For this, the immigrant worker must certify that: (i) he has lawfully entered and resided within the Albanian territory for a period of one year; (ii) he can regularly secure his living with his incomes in the RoA; (iii) he regularly pays contributions for health insurances for the coverage of the health care services; (iv) he can secure appropriate premises and living conditions for his family, and also (v) he should submit required documentations specified by the decision of the Council of Ministers.

449. The resident permit for the reunion of the family is provided for a period not longer than the resident permit granted to an immigrant laborer, who has applied for the family reunion. In case of refusal of the permission for the reunion of the family, he has the right to complain to the Minister within 15 days from the date he has received the written notification.

450. Albanian legislation recognizes and ensures the reunion of a family, which has derived only from the marriage of immigrant workers. In case of marriage dissolution or in case of spouse death after the entry in the RoA, the residence permit of a foreigner is not extended, except the cases when (i) children of Albanian citizenship are born from this marriage and the spouse is the legal protector, or when (ii) he has been provided with temporary residence permit with validity of two years before marriage dissolution (Article 33 of the law "For foreigners").

451. When a child is born in the RoA, the immigrant worker in regular situation informs, within 30 days, the local DBM for his birth certificate, and a temporary residence permit is issued for the child.

452. All family members of a foreigner enjoy the same rights and obligations derived from this law like the foreigner himself. Adult members of the family of a foreigner, who have entered Albania for the effect of family reunion, have the right to apply individually for their residence permits if they wish to stay in Albania at least 5 years. Minors, who have entered Albania for the purpose of family reunion, apply for residence permits independently of other family members when they have reached the adult age.

453. An immigrant worker, the spouse of an Albanian national, is provided with residence permit with validity time of not more than one year, for the first time, without being obliged to submit his work permit. Later, this residence permit is renewed for a two years period and it is legally valid even for juveniles under the age of 18 years, who is not married and for whom the foreigner is his legal protector.

454. If the marriage with an Albanian national is disclosed to have been made to avoid obligations of this law, then the immigrant worker is not provided with resident permit, or when he has got it, the residence permit is terminated. In such circumstances the marriage is considered as a fictive act because spouses cannot establish a common life and they are not familiar with personal particularities of each other.

455. Article 55 "For foreigners" stipulates the provision of family members of an immigrant laborer with annual work permit of the type "A/AF". This permission is issued on condition that this member of the family has lived with the foreigner lawfully and continuously at least for three years.

456. The Council of Ministers, on the proposal of the Minister of Labor, Social Affairs and Equal Opportunities; the Minister of Interior; the Minister of Foreign Affairs; the Minister of Integration; the Minister of Education and Science and of the Minister of Tourism, Culture, Youth and Sports, regulates all issues related to required documentations for the procedures of obtaining the status of a long-term resident, as well as relevant issues regarding cancellation or the loss of such status, ensuring the rights derived from it, determining the right to freedom of movement and special conditions for the protection against expulsion (Article 62 of the law "For foreigners").

457. Regulations of employment and the protection of constitutional rights shall ensure immigrant laborers and members of their families their integration in the civil life of the country of their employment.

458. For this purpose, efforts are being made for working out a Decision of the Council of Ministers (DCM), in the format of a national program for the overall integration of long-term residents in the RoA including labor market and social, cultural and language integration.

Statistics

The Ministry of Interior (MI) reports that there has been faced no problem with the process of family reunion of immigrant laborers. The same treatment is guaranteed to all immigrant laborers and members of their families from all states.

The MI and the Ministry of LSAEO reports that they haven't received any applications from the families of the dead immigrant laborers for the provision of work permits.

Articles 45 and 53

Enjoyment of equality of treatment for members of the families of migrant workers in the indicated aspects and measures taken to guarantee integration of children of migrant workers in the local school system; right to freely choose a remunerated activity for members of a migrant worker's family

459. Integration of emigrants/immigrants is a process which is closely connected with their education. In this view, the Ministry of Education and Science (MES) has taken legal and administrative steps for creating appropriate conditions for the education of the children of immigrant and emigrant laborers.

460. The MES has decided to include into the Albanian educational system the compulsory study of two foreign languages at schools, where the second language will be applied according to students' choice. In this way, it intends to allow the students to reach level B2 according to "The Common Frame of European Language References: teaching, learning and evaluation."

461. The issue of maintaining national identity and Albanian language, as its fundamental component, is of special importance. Several efforts have been made recent years relating to the support of initiatives for the study of Albanian language by the children of Albanian immigrant laborers. Massive migration, apart from other things, has highlighted the indispensability of education in Albanian language of the new generation of Albanian immigrants.

462. Currently, the situation for the study of the Albanian language appears to be different from one country to another. It is dependent on historical conditions, on legislation and financial means as well as on other objective and subjective factors.

463. Generally, there is a tradition for the teaching of the Albanian language, which is actually established on more orderly basis in such countries like Germany, Switzerland, in some Nordic countries, where there are great numbers of immigrants from Kosovo, Macedonia and other lands. The study of the Albanian language in these countries is achieved through classes of additional lessons, always under the material support of host countries.

464. The children of immigrants who come to work or return to Albania are recognized necessarily the right to education and apply to local educational authorities. As in cases when they have or have not a diploma/certificate, (they undergo a test before a commission), they are registered at schools, in the class corresponding with his/her level of knowledge obtained in the country they are coming from.

465. Article 13 in normative provisions of Pre-university Education specifies the way of registration and the equivalency of school documentations of the country they are coming from, either for compulsory education or for the secondary schools, for Albanian pupils (aliens or foreigners) coming from abroad.

466. The Ministry of Education and Science (MES), under the Orders of the Minister of Education and Science no. 10, dated 28.02.2008, and no. 100, dated 11.03.2008, envisages the establishment of a special Commission for the equivalency of school documentations of Albanian nationals that have graduated secondary schools abroad and wish to continue their studies in the universities of Albania. Generally, all legal acts (Guidances, Orders, etc.) delivered by the MES specify also the steps to be taken for the treatment of the children of emigrants and for the recognition of their diplomas or certificates.

467. Regarding the creation of facilities for the education of the children of Albanian immigrant laborers, the MES is actually insisting to sign bilateral agreements in the field of education, or the review of existing agreements with those countries where there are considerable numbers of immigrants requiring the inclusion of additional classes for the teaching of Albanian language.

468. "The Agreement between the Government of the Republic of Albania and the Government of the Republic of Greece for the cooperation in the fields of Education, Science and Culture", signed by the parties on 4 November 1998, is the only agreement signed by the Albanian state in such area. It also lays down the recognition of the right to education of immigrant children, exchange of pedagogical staff, expertise and textbooks for 9-years schools, etc. It mainly has in view the publication of ABC-Book, Language-Reading books, but also textbooks of History, Geography or Albanian Folklore. Required funds have been allocated for its completion in the coming years.

469. Within the framework of measures taken for this segment of Albanian society, the MES has worked out a platform for additional classes of Albanian language study by the children of immigrant laborers living abroad and also by children of Albanian Diaspora.

470. In addition, the MES has also prepared a package of TV teaching materials for the education of children abroad. The right for the transmission of this cable educational package is awarded, under agreements, to two national TV in Albania: Top Channel and Alsat.

471. Presently, good efforts are being made with authorities and Albanian associations in countries where there are Albanian immigrants for encouraging the enlightenment and maintenance of national identity through the study of Albanian language and culture. Therefore, the MES has offered free of charge textbooks of Albanian language to enable the organization of teaching courses of Albanian language in Italy, Greece, where there are the greatest communities of Albanian immigrants after '90.

472. In these two states, there are different experiences for the study and maintenance of Albanian culture and language as a mother tongue. In Greece, children learn the Albanian language in courses organized and conducted by Albanian teachers thanks to dedication of their parents and Albanian associations operating there, etc. Lessons are given in hired rooms and houses which have been adapted and furnished as schools. Whereas, in some regions of Italy, where concentration of Albanians is bigger, Albanian teachers have been appointed and are paid by respective communes. Albanian children can choose Albanian language at school as an optional subject.

473. Article 5/3 of the law "For foreigners" ensures every foreigner, who legally resides in the territory of Albania, and also their family members, the right to freedom of movement within Albanian territory and to choose freely the workplace without any limitations.

474. Article 33 of this law (General rules for foreign families) specifies that “All family members of a foreigner enjoy, like the foreigner himself, equal rights and obligations derived under this law.”

475. “Family members of a foreigner” constitute one of preferable categories determined by Article 40 in the law “For foreigners”, which, necessarily should be reviewed and evaluate before completion of free workplaces.

Articles 51 and 52

Right to seek alternative employment in the case of determination of the remunerated activity for migrant workers not authorized to freely choose their remunerated activity; conditions and restrictions for migrant workers who can freely choose their remunerated activity

476. The employment system in the RoA, having no quotas, is based on demand and supply of the labor market. Thus, when an employee finishes a certain job and finds another employer who is ready to hire him, he can apply for the new job renewing also his work permit. After the review of his application, employment service authorities approve eventually his new employment. Articles 40, 41, 42 of the law “For foreigners” specify the conditions on which foreigners are supplied with work permits, which are: (i) the needs of labor market for employees; (ii) the needs of labor market for self-employed persons, and (iii) priorities for the issue of work permits.

477. The needs of labor market for employees are identified after the testing of a free work place and assessment of the fact whether these jobs will be occupied by: (i) Albanian unemployed jobseekers; (ii) foreigners, family members of Albanian nationals; (iii) family members of foreigners with regular residence in the RoA; (iv) nationals from member countries of EU or from countries with which Albania has signed bilateral/multilateral agreements; (v) foreigners, who enjoy the priority of involvement into the Albanian labor market under the provisions of this law; (vi) foreigners with lawful residence in the Albanian territory, who have performed or are performing legal and continuous activities in the territory of the RoA for more than two years within the period of five preceding years.

478. The work permit to a foreigner as self-employed person is issued taking into account the development and the needs of the labor market in Albania, after assessment of economic benefits that can be obtained from the activity of the self-employed person.

479. The work permit shall be issued to a foreigner taking into account the priorities that are created while the foreigner: (i) is the spouse of an Albanian national, is holding a residence permit for one year and as long as the spouse continues to be a spouse in accordance with Albanian legislation in force; (ii) is employed within the frame of an international agreement or intergovernmental agreements, besides cases when agreements specify it otherwise; (iii) has Albanian nationality, despite his/her citizenship; (iv) has finished a vocational secondary school, public or private one in the RoA, (v) has come for vocational formation, or (vi) has the status of a transferor within an enterprise.

480. The criteria for being entitled to the right to begin an individual profitable activity are the same with those enjoyed by an Albanian national. The application for the opening of an activity is submitted not only in case of a legal residence in the RoA, but also in diplomatic and consular representative offices in the country of origin or in the countries of continuous residence.

Articles 46, 47 and 48Exemptions from import and export duties and taxes in respect of particular belongings; right to transfer earnings and savings from the State of employment to the State of origin or to any other State; imposition of taxes and avoidance of double taxation principle

481. The Customs Code of the RoA excludes immigrant laborers and members of their families from the obligation of payment of customs duties for their imported personal belongings.

482. Article 25 of the law “For migration of Albanian nationals for employment motives” stipulates the exclusion from the payment of travel taxes and airport fees of persons who have obtained the status of an emigrant, save the cases when it is determined otherwise.

483. The Albanian legislation framework related to financial obligations that a profitable activity is subjected to, creates the same effects either to domestic activities or to foreign one. The law doesn't lay down fiscal facilities for profitable activities managed by immigrant laborers.

Statistics

During the period from June 2007 to November 2008, there have been 1124 cases of exclusion of custom duties for personal things imported to Albania by emigrants with a total weight of 3.083 tonnes and a value of 91.270.000 ALL.

Articles 49, 56Authorization of residence and authorization to engage in a remunerated activity; general prohibition and conditions of expulsion

484. Authorizations of residence and work permits for special profitable activities are dependant on the categories of employees/independent economic activity, immigrant laborer or his family member.

485. The residence permit contains all motives for granting a visa. The central state authority responsible for the treatment of foreigners approves residence permits, while the regional/local state authority responsible for the treatment of foreigners shall provide foreigner with work permits.

486. Residence permits are granted for the following periods:

- (i) 3 months, 6 months or 1 year, this can be renewed not more than 5 times in succession;

Authorized operations and bodies for the recruitment of workers for employment in another State

508. In the framework of agreements for interstate cooperation, the process of recruiting workers in another country is managed by the public employment service.

509. However, the RoA has ratified the Convention of ILO, no. 181-1997 "On Private Employment Agencies". Based on this and on the management of migratory occurrences, the Albanian state recognizes and accepts participation of the private sector in recruitment of work forces on partnership basis.

510. In the Republic of Albania this activity is also governed by the Decision of the Council of Ministers (DCM) no. 708, dated 16.10.2003, "On procedures for licensing and operation of Private Employment Agencies".

513. Conditions for the selection of agencies and determining respective quotas are approved under the Order of the Minister of Labor, Social Affairs and Equal Opportunities.

514. Private employment agencies always take care of Albanian nationals who have been employed outside the territory of the RoA through their intermediation paying attention to implementation of contract conditions, to their non-discrimination and the respect for their rights and freedoms. At the end of each six months period, every private employment agency sends to the MLSAEO information about Albanian nationals whom it has intermediate for their employment abroad and any other information required about their activity in foreign countries. These agencies promptly inform the responsible state authorities when they notice or are informed that legal provisions or international acts are not being respected in host countries.
