Almost three months thousand hundreds of protesters from all regions of Ukraine demanded to fulfil their requirements, nonetheless, the Government was not responding and applied tough methods to suppress mass demonstrations. The conflict intensified on 18–20 February 2014, when over 100 persons died, 1.5 thousand were injured, several hundred went missing. Despite the signing of the Crisis Management Agreement in Ukraine on February 21, 2014, between the President of Ukraine and the leaders of the democratic opposition with the mediation of foreign ministers from Poland, Germany and France, Viktor Yanukovych and a large number of high-level government officials secretly left the country, mainly to Russia. On 22 February 2014, the Verkhovna Rada of Ukraine, as the only acting supreme state body at that time, adopted the Law of Ukraine “On the Self-removal of the President of Ukraine from the Exercise of Constitutional Powers and the Appointment of Extraordinary Elections of the President of Ukraine.” The duties of the President of Ukraine had been entrusted to the Chairman of The Verkhovna Rada of Ukraine Oleksandr Turchynov. 58. The next stage of Russian armed aggression was an attempt to destabilize the situation in the eastern and southern regions of Ukraine. Attempts by pro-Russian forces to seize power in Kharkiv, Dnipropetrovsk and Odesa regions failed. At the same time, illegal armed formations, created and funded by Russia, managed to capture some districts of Donetsk and Luhansk regions, including regional centers. Since 2014, Russia has been supplying regular troops, mercenaries, weapons, ammunition, and fuel to the occupied parts of the Donetsk and Luhansk regions through an uncontrolled section of the Ukrainian-Russian state border.

59. On 13 April 2014, the Acting President of Ukraine Oleksandr Turchynov announced the decision of the National Security and Defence Council of Ukraine to begin an anti-terrorist operation in the East of Ukraine.
