I. Jurisdiction and activities

A. States Parties to the International Covenant on Civil and Political Rights and to the Optional Protocols

1. As at 28 March 2025, 174 States were parties to the International Covenant on Civil and Political Rights and 116 States were parties to the Optional Protocol to the Covenant. Both instruments have been in force since 23 March 1976. The Second Optional Protocol to the Covenant, aiming at the abolition of the death penalty, entered into force on 11 July 1991. As at 28 March 2025, 92 States were parties to that Optional Protocol.

2. Also as at 28 March 2025, 50 States had made the declaration provided for under article 41 (1) of the Covenant. In this connection, the Committee appeals to States Parties to make the declaration under article 41 of the Covenant and to consider using this mechanism with a view to making implementation of the provisions of the Covenant more effective.

3. All information on the status of the treaties, including reservations and declarations made by States Parties, is available at <https://treaties.un.org/Pages/Treaties.aspx?id=4&subid=A&lang=en>.

B. Sessions of the Committee

4. The Committee has held three sessions since the adoption of its previous annual report. The 141st session was held from 1 to 23 July 2024, the 142nd session from 14 October to 7 November 2024 and the 143rd session from 3 to 28 March 2025.

F. Derogations pursuant to article 4 of the Covenant

15. Article 4 (1) of the Covenant stipulates that, in time of public emergency which threatens the life of the nation, States Parties may take measures derogating from certain obligations under the Covenant. Pursuant to article 4 (2), no derogation is allowed from articles 6, 7, 8 (1) and (2), 11, 15, 16 and 18. Pursuant to article 4 (3), any derogation must be immediately notified to the other States Parties through the intermediary of the Secretary-General. A further notification is required upon the termination of the derogation¹ or in the event of an extension thereof. During the period covered by the present report, Ecuador, El Salvador and Guatemala made such initial notifications. The following States extended the derogations they had initially made: Ecuador, El Salvador, Guatemala, Peru and Ukraine. Notifications of termination of derogations were made by Ecuador and Paraguay. All such notifications are available from <https://treaties.un.org>.

G. Concluding observations and follow-up to concluding observations

16. Since its forty-fourth session, held in March 1992,² the Committee has adopted concluding observations. It takes the concluding observations as a starting point in the preparation of the list of issues for the consideration of the subsequent State Party report. During the period under review, concluding observations were adopted on 18 States Parties. At its 141st session, the Committee adopted concluding observations on Croatia, Honduras, India, Maldives, Malta, Suriname and the Syrian Arab Republic.³ At its 142nd session, the Committee adopted concluding observations on Ecuador, France, Greece, Iceland, Pakistan and Türkiye.⁴ At its 143rd session, the Committee adopted concluding observations on Albania, Burkina Faso, Mongolia, Montenegro and Zimbabwe.⁵ The concluding observations are available from the treaty body database (https://tbinternet.ohchr.org/_layouts/15/TreatyBodyExternal/TBSearch.aspx?Lang=en) and from the Official Document System of the United Nations (<http://documents.un.org>) under the symbols indicated.

17. During the 141st session, the Special Rapporteur for follow-up on concluding observations submitted interim reports to the Committee. During that session, the Committee reviewed the following States Parties under the follow-up process: Democratic Republic of the Congo,⁶ Kenya,⁷ Liberia⁸ and Lao People's Democratic Republic.⁹

18. During the period under review, follow-up information was received from States Parties and from other stakeholders.

19. All information on follow-up to concluding observations, including follow-up reports, can be found on the website of the Office of the United Nations High Commissioner for Human Rights (OHCHR).¹⁰

H. Communications and follow-up to Views

20. Individuals who claim that their rights under the Covenant have been violated by a State Party and who have exhausted all available domestic remedies may submit written communications to the Committee for consideration under the Optional Protocol. No communication can be considered unless it concerns a State Party to the Covenant that has recognized the competence of the Committee by becoming a party to the Optional Protocol. In accordance with rule 93 of the Committee's rules of procedure, States Parties have the possibility to request that the Committee consider the admissibility of a communication separately from its merits. The Committee has decided that, for reasons of procedural efficiency and owing to structural resource constraints, it would suspend, as of 8 May 2024 until further notice, the possibility for States Parties to make such requests. The decision does not affect requests to consider admissibility separately if they were submitted prior to 8 May 2024; those requests would continue to be handled in accordance with the usual practice. The suspension decision is also implemented without prejudice to the possibility for Committee to decide, at the time of registration, to examine the admissibility of communications separately from the merits. In such instances, States would be informed accordingly in the registration notes.

21. Consideration of communications under the Optional Protocol is confidential and takes place in closed meetings (art. 5 (3)). The Committee's final decisions (Views, decisions declaring a communication inadmissible and decisions to discontinue the consideration of a communication) are made public. The names of the authors are disclosed unless the Committee decides otherwise at the request of the authors.

22. An overview of States Parties' obligations under the Optional Protocol is contained in the Committee's general comment No. 33 (2008).

23. At its 140th session, the Committee adopted a multifaceted strategy aimed at addressing the high number of communications pending consideration and adoption. As part of the strategy, the Committee adopted a simplified format for specific decisions. Such decisions relate to communications raising similar factual elements and claims, and for which the Committee has identified the structural nature and policy underlying the violations and developed a consistent jurisprudence over the years.

1. Progress of work

24. The Committee started its work under the Optional Protocol at its second session, in 1977. Since then, 4,809 communications concerning 95 States Parties have been registered for consideration by the Committee, of which 159 were registered during the period covered by the present report. At present, the status of the 4,809 registered communications is as follows:

(a) Consideration concluded by the adoption of Views under article 5 (4) of the Optional Protocol: 3,679, in 1,868 of which violations of the Covenant were found;

(b) Declared inadmissible: 1,104;

(c) Discontinued or withdrawn: 707;

(d) Not yet concluded: 1,051.

25. At its 141st, 142nd and 143rd sessions, the Committee adopted Views on 378¹¹ cases and concluded the consideration of 25 cases by declaring them inadmissible. The Views and final decisions adopted by the Committee at all sessions are available through the treaty body case law database (<http://juris.ohchr.org>), as well as from the details on jurisprudence available on the OHCHR website (by session).¹² They are also accessible through the treaty body database on the OHCHR website and from the Official Document System of the United Nations.

26. For the period under review, the Committee decided to discontinue the consideration of 66 communications for such reasons as withdrawal by the author, because the author or counsel failed to respond to the Committee despite repeated reminders or because authors with expulsion orders pending against them were ultimately allowed to stay in the countries concerned.

27. The table below sets out the pattern of the Committee's work on communications over the past 13 years (communications dealt with from 2012 to 31 December 2024).

Year	New cases registered	Cases concluded^a	Pending cases at 31 December
2024	164	446	985
2023	231	164	1 267
2022	210	175	1 200
2021	212	132	1 273
2020	170	155	1 193
2019	413	134	1 178
2018	190	101	746

¹¹ This number is the result of the strategy to join communications with legal and factual similarities, as well as the joining of 252 cases concerning the same State raising similar legal and factual issues.

¹² See https://tbinternet.ohchr.org/_layouts/15/TreatyBodyExternal/SessionsList.aspx?Treaty=CCPR.

2014	191	124	456
2013	93	72	379
2012	102	99	355

^a Total number of cases decided (by the adoption of Views, decisions of inadmissibility and decisions to discontinue consideration).

28. As at 28 March 2025, some 590 communications were ready to be prepared by the secretariat for the Committee to take decisions on admissibility and/or the merits. Unless there is a significant increase in the capacity of the secretariat to process communications, however, the Committee's ability to address its backlog in that regard will continue to be seriously compromised.

29. During the period under review, the Committee, through its Special Rapporteurs on new communications and interim measures, transmitted 159 new communications to States Parties under rule 92 of the Committee's rules of procedure, requesting information or observations relevant to questions of admissibility and the merits.

2. Cooperation by States Parties in the examination of communications

30. In several cases decided during the period under review, the Committee noted that States Parties had failed to cooperate in the procedure by not providing observations on the admissibility and/or the merits of the authors' allegations or by disregarding the request for interim measures to prevent the occurrence of irreparable harm to the alleged victims. The Committee strongly regretted the situation and recalled that good faith implementation of the Optional Protocol required States Parties to transmit to the Committee all information at their disposal and to respect the request for interim measures. In the absence of a reply from States Parties, due weight had to be given by the Committee to the author's allegations, to the extent that they had been properly substantiated.

3. Issues considered by the Committee

31. The full texts of the Views adopted by the Committee and of its decisions declaring communications inadmissible under the Optional Protocol are available in the treaty body database.

32. During the period under review, the Committee examined and found violations of the Covenant in the following communications: *Gritsunov v. 4. Follow-up on Views

35. During the period under review, the Special Rapporteur for follow-up on Views submitted one report, at the 142nd session.

36. At the time of the conclusion of the 143rd session, the Committee had determined that there had been a violation of the Covenant in 1,868 of the 2,444 Views adopted since 1977. The Committee has continued the practice, initiated at its 109th session (14 October–1 November 2013), of including in its reports on follow-up to Views an assessment of the replies received from or action taken by States Parties; the assessment uses the criteria established for the follow-up procedure to the concluding observations. At its 118th session (17 October–4 November 2016), the Committee decided to revise its assessment criteria. At its 121st session (16 October–20 November 2017), the Committee decided to further revise its methodology and procedure for monitoring follow-up to Views. At its 136th session (10 October–4 November 2022), the Committee adopted a note containing guidelines on the procedure for follow-up to Views, which it prepared in order to improve the process by which it aims to ascertain the measures taken by States Parties to give effect to its Views.¹³ The Committee continues to note and regrets that many States Parties fail to implement the Views adopted under the first Optional Protocol.

I. Staff resources, translation of official documents and digital transformation

37. In accordance with article 36 of the Covenant, the Secretary-General has a duty to provide the Committee with the necessary staff and facilities for the effective performance of its functions. The Committee reiterates its concern regarding the shortage of staff resources and emphasizes once again the importance of allocating adequate staff resources to service its sessions. The Committee expresses its support for the digital transformation agenda of the Office of the United Nations High Commissioner for Human Rights and strongly encourages States Parties to provide sustainable contributions to that agenda, as it is of critical importance to the Committee's work and the future of the human rights system.

J. Outreach on the work of the Committee

38. At its ninety-fourth session, the Committee adopted a paper on a strategic approach to public relations with the media.¹⁴ Since then, the Committee has continued to develop its media strategy, which has included, inter alia, holding press conferences at the end of each session, issuing press statements on relevant individual communications and posting on social media.

39. During the 141st, 142nd and 143rd sessions, OHCHR provided full webcasts of the public parts of all the Committee's sessions, including the examination of all States Parties' reports. The webcasts may be viewed at <https://webtv.un.org>.

K. Submission of the Committee's annual report to the General Assembly

40. On 14 October 2024, during the 142nd session, the Chair attended the online interactive dialogue with the Third Committee, during which she presented the Committee's annual report.

L. Adoption of the report

41. At its 4218th meeting, held on 26 March 2025, the Committee considered the draft of its sixty-seventh annual report, covering its activities at its 141st, 142nd and 143rd sessions, held in 2024 and 2025. The report, as amended in the course of the discussion, was adopted unanimously. By virtue of its decision 1985/105 of 8 February 1985, the Economic and Social Council authorized the Secretary-General to transmit the Committee's annual report directly to the General Assembly.

II. Methods of work of the Committee under article 40 of the Covenant and cooperation with other United Nations bodies

A. Recent developments and decisions on procedures

42. At its 142nd session, the Committee adopted an internal document containing basic technical guidance for new members of the Committee.

B. Links to other bodies

43. In an effort to strengthen the relationship with other treaty bodies and regional human rights mechanisms, during the 141st and 142nd sessions, the Committee continued with the following focal points: Bacre Waly Ndiaye for the Committee against Torture and the Subcommittee on Prevention of Torture and Other Cruel, Inhuman or Degrading Treatment or Punishment; Yvonne Donders for the Committee on Economic, Social and Cultural Rights; Kobauyah Tchamdja Kpatcha for the Committee on the Elimination of Discrimination against Women; Marcia V.J.
