Replies of Chad to the list of issues in relation to its fourth periodic report*

[Date received: 12 July 2023]

* The present document is being issued without formal editing.

I. General information

1. The Government of Chad devotes particular attention to civil society organizations and human rights defenders in its policy on protecting and promoting human rights. In order to comply with its international commitments and implement the recommendations arising from the examination of its various reports by the treaty bodies, the Government has drawn up a bill on the protection of human rights. This bill defines the rights and duties of human rights defenders as well as the obligations of the State and the mechanisms for fulfilling these obligations. Protection is afforded to all those who, in one way or another, participate in the promotion, protection and defence of the human rights and fundamental freedoms established in the Constitution.

2. The National Human Rights Commission is an independent administrative authority. It has legal personality and enjoys financial autonomy in accordance with article 171 of the Constitution of 4 May 2018 and the principles relating to the status of national institutions for the promotion and protection of human rights (the Paris Principles). It has 11 members, including 5 women (45.45 per cent of the membership), from different walks of life (independent individuals and representatives of media outlets, the judiciary, associations for the defence of human rights, teaching staff of the law faculties of public universities, trade unions, the Bar, women's associations and associations of persons with disabilities), who are elected for a four-year term, renewable once. In accordance with articles 4–7 of Act No. 028/PR/2018 of 22 November 2018, its mission includes:

- Helping to promote and protect human rights by advising the Government on human rights issues
- Assisting the Government in its work with national and international institutions on all human rights issues in Chad
- Participating in the revision of existing laws and the development of new human rights standards
- Conducting surveys and producing studies and publications on human rights
- Investigating, on its own initiative, cases of human rights violations
- Advising the Government on the ratification of international legal instruments in the field of human rights

3. The Government is taking steps to address climate change. In that connection, it has adopted a national strategy on combating climate change. This involves the establishment of the National Agency for the Great Green Wall, whose mission is to encourage tree planting throughout the country.

II. Issues relating to the general provisions of the Covenant (arts. 1–5)

4. The notion of business and human rights, however recent it may seem, is essential in the fight to protect human rights in this area. After the adoption of the Mining Code in 2018, several laws and measures have been developed in this area. These include:

- Decree No. 0765/PR/MMDICPSP/2019 of 16/05/2019, establishing an agency for marketing gold and precious metals
- Decree No. 2087/PR/MPME/2019 of 30/12/2019, implementing the Mining Code
- Decree No. 2085/PR/MPME/2019 of 30/12/2019, adopting a policy on mining activities in Chad
- Decree No. 2086/PR/MPME/2019 of 30/12/2019, adopting the Programme to Support the Development of the Mining Sector in Chad 2020–2023

5. With a view to implementing the Guiding Principles on Business and Human Rights, the Government of Chad, in close collaboration with civil society organizations and employers, has drawn up an action plan covering the following activities:

- Developing a national human rights policy
- Identifying stakeholders as part of a sector-based and inclusive approach
- Organizing forums on the subject around the country
- Mobilizing material, financial and human resources
- Validating the plan from a technical and political perspective
- Strengthening the capacities of the stakeholders identified
- Following up on the process
- Implementing the recommendations arising from the inclusive and sovereign national dialogue on business and human rights
- Completing the process within 12 months

Reply to the questions raised in paragraph 10 of the list of issues (E/C.12/TCD/Q/4)

6. In Chad, there is no discrimination in employment, either in the public or the private sector.

7. With regard to the private sector, Act No. 038 establishing the Labour Code and the General Collective Agreement of 12 December 2002 prohibit all forms of gender-based discrimination in the areas of recruitment and social security.

Reply to the questions raised in paragraph 11 of the list of issues

8. The 2018 Constitution prohibits discriminatory practices throughout the country (Transitional Constitutional Charter, art. 14 and arts. 10 and 13).

9. With regard to women's participation in political life, Act No. 045/PR/2019 of 31 December 2019 establishing the Electoral Code recognizes the right of every Chadian citizen to vote or stand for election, irrespective of his or her sex.

10. Where civil law is concerned, Chad has identified discriminatory provisions and, as part of the process of drafting the Persons and Family Code, is working on harmonizing them to bring them into line with international commitments.

11. The Government, with the support of its partners, has taken the following measures to promote the empowerment of women:

- A total of 1,119 girls and women have been given technical training in agriculture, livestock breeding and arboriculture to enable them to carry out farming activities in Lac, Kanem, Salamat and Hadjer Lamis provinces.
- A total of 825 people engaged in income-generating activities, all women, have undergone training in processing, preserving and selling produce in Lac, Kanem, and Hadjer Lamis provinces.
- Recipients of agricultural equipment, including 112 women, have been trained to drive, operate and maintain tractors, power tillers and other equipment made available to them in the Lac, Kanem and Hadjer Lamis regions.
- A total of 57 teenage girls from Salamat have been trained to install satellite dishes, solar panels and electrical wiring. Today, these young people are able to install and repair solar panels and electrical wiring, disproving the popular belief that these trades are the sole preserve of men.
- Four awareness-raising and advocacy campaigns have been organized for traditional authorities and communities in order to highlight the importance of empowering women and to advocate for greater access to land for women belonging to groups that have proven their effectiveness, thereby enabling them to carry out their activities.

- Eight awareness-raising campaigns on the importance of empowering women have been organized by non-governmental organization (NGO) implementing partners in the provinces of Hadjer Lamis, Kanem and Salamat.
- A total of 181 enterprising women's groups with 4,050 members have been given modern agricultural equipment to enable them to improve their production capacity. The equipment in question is composed of tractors (8), power-driven pumps (16), two-wheeled carts (12), husking tools (10), 18-disc ploughs (8), power tillers (8) and combine harvesters (3).
- A total of 750 women are engaged in income-generating activities across the area covered by the project.

12. The Ministry of Gender and National Solidarity has set up a national programme to promote women's economic and social empowerment. The Government is injecting 2 billion CFA francs (CFAF) per year into the programme.

13. The Zuhur Al Mara (Women's Talent) project, which was launched on 14 October 2022 and is organized by the Ministry of Gender and National Solidarity, rewards innovative projects by girls and women, including those with disabilities, every year.

14. A number of women's organizations in 21 of the country's 23 provinces have received material and financial support. They include, for example:

- A cooperative of women's organizations established to process local produce in Lac province
- A network of women's organizations established to develop Mandoul province
- A network of women's organizations established to develop Kanem province

III. Issues relating to specific provisions of the Covenant (arts. 6–15)

Reply to the questions raised in paragraph 12 of the list of issues

15. In order to reduce the unemployment rate, particularly among young people and persons with disabilities, the Government developed and launched a project called the "50,000 decent jobs initiative" on 24 June 2022. This project is a specific measure taken by the Government to address the problem of employment and young people's access to the labour market. It mainly focuses on:

- Promoting entrepreneurship among young people
- Supporting young people's initiatives and projects
- Providing the tools and resources needed for self-employment

16. Some time ago, the Ministry of Education and the Promotion of Civic Values and the Ministry of Higher Education and Vocational Training readapted programmes with a view to promoting access to employment.

17. The Ministry of Vocational Training, Jobs and Microfinance was established as a government department to fulfil the same purpose.

Right to social security

Reply to the questions raised in paragraph 17 of the list of issues

18. In order to ensure access to social security, insurance and pensions for men and women workers, the Government has undertaken a number of reforms of the institutional frameworks of the National Social Security Fund and the National Pension Fund with a view to improving service quality in line with current requirements.

19. The Government has adopted Act No. 035/PR/2019 of 5 August 2019, establishing universal health coverage in Chad. This Act is based on the principles of national solidarity, equity, risk pooling, efficiency and non-discrimination. It provides for the following three schemes:

- A contributory scheme known as Employees' Health Insurance, which covers salaried workers in the public, semi-public and private sectors
- A contributory scheme known as Self-Employed Workers' Health Insurance, which covers all self-employed workers engaged in commerce, the liberal professions, craft and agriculture
- A scheme known as Medical Assistance, which is aimed at persons on low incomes

20. Furthermore, 42 per cent of the total cost of implementing the National Development Plan for 2017–2021, i.e. CFAF 2,327,400,000, is being allocated to the fourth area of the Plan, which concerns social welfare or social security policy. This shows the importance that the Government attaches to improving people's living conditions.

Reply to the questions raised in paragraph 18 of the list of issues

21. The question of revising the Civil Code and the Persons and Family Code was discussed during the inclusive and sovereign national dialogue held between 20 August and 8 October 2022. Recommendations to this effect have been formulated with a view to their being adopted. Even more promisingly, a committee charged with reviewing the draft Persons and Family Code has been set up by the Ministry of Gender and National Solidarity.

Reply to the questions raised in paragraph 19 of the list of issues

22. Articles 335 and 336 of the Criminal Code prohibit the exploitation of children through prostitution and provide for penalties. Decree No. 55/PR-MTJS-DTMOPS of 8 February 1969 on child labour also prohibits the exploitation of children.

23. The Government has drafted a child protection code. The issue of child protection was raised and discussed during the inclusive and sovereign national dialogue held from 20 August to 8 October 2022 in N'Djamena. One of the main recommendations made was that the draft code should be adopted. To this end, under the aegis of the Ministry of Gender and National Solidarity, the draft was reviewed and technically validated at a workshop held on 14 and 15 June 2023 in Bakara, in Chari-Baguirmi province.

24. The exploitation of children is punishable under Act No. 012/PR/2018 of 20 June 2018, ratifying Ordinance No. 006/PR/2018 of 30 March 2018 on combating human trafficking in Chad. Trafficking in persons is established as an offence under national law. Article 7 of the aforementioned ordinance prescribes a sentence of between 4 and 30 years' imprisonment and a fine of between CFAF 250,000 and CFAF 5 million for anyone who commits the offence of trafficking in persons.

25. In practical terms, in 2018, Chad sent three labour inspectors to spend 45 days at the African Regional Labour Administration Centre of the International Labour Organization.

Right to an adequate standard of living

Reply to the questions raised in paragraph 23 of the list of issues

26. It is currently estimated that 78 per cent of the urban population and 32 per cent of the rural population have access to drinking water. As for sanitation services, the 2017 report of the African Development Bank gives an overall access rate of 30 per cent.

27. Continuing its efforts to improve access to drinking water for all, the Government commissioned the construction of 15,987 hand-operated pumps and 703 drinking water supply systems in 2019, increasing the rate of access to drinking water from 65 per cent of the population in 2018 to 66.5 per cent in 2019. The Government has received additional funding in the amount of CFAF 5 billion (over €7.6 million) to implement the Project for the Provision of Drinking Water and Sanitation Services in Semi-Urban and Rural Environments.

The funding is provided by the Global Environment Facility through its implementing agency, the African Development Bank. The funding agreement was signed on 20 January 2023 by the representative of the African Development Bank in Chad and the Minister of Economic Planning and International Partnerships. The funds allocated by the Global Environment Facility will make it possible to continue the construction of several drinking water and sanitation facilities in Chad. These include 48 small-scale drinking water supply systems, partially powered by solar energy in semi-urban centres and large grouped villages. The African Development Bank estimates that the Project will eventually benefit over 2 million people, 54 per cent of whom will be women. In 2021, barely 53 per cent of the country's population had access to drinking water. The Government is continuing its efforts to achieve universal and equitable access to drinking water and hygiene and sanitation services by 2030.

Right to physical and mental health

Reply to the questions raised in paragraph 25 of the list of issues

28. The Government of Chad attaches the utmost importance to the health sector, which it considers to be a priority. Health-care facilities, with support from the Global Fund, offer free treatment to people affected by poliomyelitis, malaria, tuberculosis, Guinea worm, cholera, HIV/AIDS, meningitis and yellow fever.

29. On 11 April 2023, Chad launched a number of measures to deal with HIV/AIDS and hepatitis B and C. The aim of these measures is to implement a national policy on combating HIV, AIDS and sexually transmitted infections through the health sector. The national HIV prevalence rate fell from 3.3 per cent to 1.1 per cent in 2021. The measures being taken include the provision of 49 GeneXpert machines to promote the use of viral load indicators through appropriate mass strategies that have already been proposed, in addition to the usual strategy.

30. In common with other African countries, Chad has very few mental health specialists. However, a new psychiatric and alcoholism treatment unit has been opened at the Notre Dame des Apôtres de Maïngara hospital in Sarh, in Moyen Chari province in southern Chad.

Right to education

Reply to the questions raised in paragraph 27 of the list of issues

31. By order No. 0621 of 19 October 2021, the Directorate for the Advancement of Girls' Education became the Directorate for Girls' Education and the Promotion of Gender. Its purpose is to improve school access and retention rates for girls and to promote gender parity and equity.

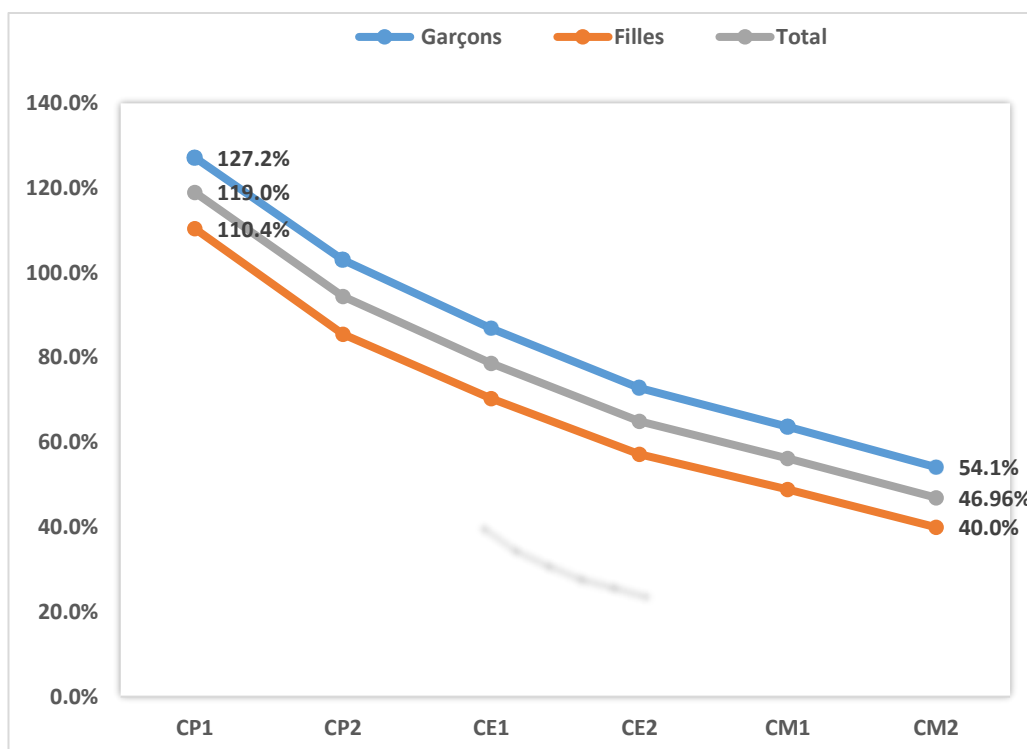

32. At the national level, the number of primary school pupils increased by 4.2 per cent between 2021 and 2022, rising from 2,719,364 to 2,832,890.

33. Girls account for 44.6 per cent of the total number of pupils. This proportion is almost identical to the previous year's figure of 44.3 per cent.

34. At the secondary level, key indicators show that the gross intake rate is 18.9 per cent, compared with 18.3 per cent in 2021. The rate for girls is 13 per cent. The gross enrolment rate is 22.5 per cent, compared with 21.3 per cent the previous year. The rate for girls is 14.7 per cent.

35. The parity index was 0.5, compared with 0.4 the previous year. This index reflects girls' low attendance rates. The secondary school completion rate is 21.1 per cent overall and 12.7 per cent for girls.

36. During the lockdown imposed after the outbreak of the coronavirus disease (COVID-19) pandemic, the Government designed a special programme that is broadcast on national radio and television channels in French and Arabic.
